

A SHORT ACCOUNT OF SCOTLAND.
BEING

A Description of the Nature of that Kingdom, and what the Constitution of it is in CHURCH and STATE.

Wherein also some notice is taken of their Chief Cities and Royal Boroughs.

WITH AN APPENDIX,

- I. About Their King's Supremacy.
- I. The Difference of the Scotch and English Liturgy.
- II. The Revenue and Expence on the Civil and Military List, according to a late Establishment. by the Revd Thomas Mace

London, Printed for Tho. Newborough, at the Golden Ball in St. Paul's Church-Yard, 1702.

A SHORT ACCOUNT OF SCOTLAND
BEING

A Description of the Nature of that Kingdom, and what the Constitution of it is in Church and State.

Wherein also some notice is taken of their Civil Laws and Royal Burgesses.

WITH AN APPENDIX

- I. About Their Kings & Monarchs.
- II. The Difference of the Language.
- III. The Revenue and the State of the Country.
- and Manners according to a late Establishment.

London, Printed for T. Widdows, at the Golden Ball in St. Dunstons Church Lane, 1702.

To the Reader.

TO THE READER.

Reader,

THE following Account is made out of some few Notes I had taken about Fourteen Years ago, when I was called to Scotland. And being the Union of England and Scotland is now grown a considerable Subject in every Bodies Mouth, perhaps it may gratify the Curiosity of those who are Strangers to that Country, to be a little into the Knowledge

To the Reader.

of the Nature and Constitution of it both in Church and State.

Without therefore offering at any Reasons for or against such an Union, all I take upon me to do, is to describe that Kingdom to the best of my Knowledge or the Information I had while I was upon the Place; wherein,

2 Mac. 15.
38.

If I have done well, it is what I desired; but if flenderly or meanly, it is that which I could attain to.

not

not only a few Leagues from that Island but Ireland it self is frequently called Scotia Major, and Part of Scotland Ierne, the Name of Ireland, as if in both Instances the Irish had a mind to leave some Memorial concerning the Origin of the Country. And it is farther observed, that in the High-lands of Scotland there is nothing heard but the Irish Language, as the supposed Language they brought with them when they left the Place of their Nativity, and became Colonies here.

The Soil.

The Soil of the Country seems to the Eye very indifferent; and tho' they have many fine Valleys, which might be improved into a Competitiorship with our English Meadows, yet for want of sufficient Industry and Care they become almost useless, on the account of frequent Bogs and Waters in such Places. Whence it is, that they have little Hay in that Kingdom. And tho' there is a competency of Grass daily exposed to Sale in the Towns and Villages, yet being cut out in the Intervals or little Spaces between the Ridges of Corn, sometimes very distant from one another, they think it more profitable to sell the Grass, than to make it into Hay for Winter. At which time their Horses feed for the most part of

Str

Straw and Oats, which are sold in their Markets at tolerable Rates. And this is the reason likewise why their Arable-ground is very considerable; and 'tis almost incredible how much of the Mountains they plough, where the Declensions, I had almost said the Precipices, are such, that to our thinking, it puts 'em to greater difficulty and charge to carry on their Work, than they need be at in draining the Valleys.

Their Harvest is very great of Oats and Barly, which is the more common and flourishing Grain of the Country, the Straw whereof is very serviceable to 'em for the Support of the Cattle. Not but they have Beans, Pease, and some Wheat likewise; but the Oats and Barly are most in request, as on which they chiefly depend: On the first for Bread, on the other for Drink, which is sometimes strong enough to arm 'em against the Coldness of the Climate. And of their Barly there are two sorts; One of which has double Ears, and they call it Beer: This they make their Malt of, and may be a reason for giving the Drink that Name. But that which employs great part of their Land, is Hemp, of which they have mighty Burdens, and on which they bestow much Care and Pains to dress and prepare it for making their Linen, the most noted and beneficial Manufacture of the Kingdom.

Inclosures. We seldom meet with Inclosures; either because being a Corn-Country, they would be injured as little as may be by Birds which harbour in the Hedges; or being without those long and kind Leafes the Tenants of England have, they are not encouraged by their Lords in that and some other Improvements; or that there is want of Industry in this, and the like Cases: So it is, that their Fields are open, and without Fences, unless here and there they raise out of the Road some little continued heaps of Stone in the nature of a Wall, to secure their Crops from the Incursions of Travellers.

The High-Lands.

High-Lands.

Scotland is distinguished into High-Lands and Low-Lands. The People of the first were anciently called Brigantes (a Name the Irish sometimes go by, of whom they are supposed to be descended) from Briga or Bria, a Bray, a Word still in use with 'em to signifie an High-place;

as

A Short Account of Scotland, &c.

3

is when they say, the Bray of Arbol, they mean the Mountainous Part of that County. But now mostly High-Landers, whether because they lie more Northerly than the rest of the Kingdom, or because they dwell in the Hilly-part of it, is uncertain: But heretofore this was the main of the Scotch King's Territories till the Picts were expelled, who had Edinburgh in possession, and the better part of the Low-Lands, where about five Miles from that City there are a row of Hills, called Pict-land-Hills, in which those distressed Princes frequently sculked in convenient Recesses or Rooms hew'd out of the Rocks, till they had fresh Opportunities to try their Fortune, and recover their Country: But were at last in the Reign of Kenneth 2d. (about the Year 839.) so entirely routed, that the Name is now extinct as well as the Kingdom.

The High-Landers are not without considerable Quantities of Corn, yet have not enough to satisfy their Numbers, and therefore yearly come down with their Cattle, of which they have greater Plenty, and so traffick with the Low-Landers for such proportions of Oats and Barley as their Families or Necessities call for.

They

Their Subjection to their Lords.

They are in great Subjection to their Lords, who have almost an absolute Power over 'em. So that whenever They summon'd 'em, they immediately got together, and attended them whithersoever they went, tho' to the loss of their Lives, and the little Fortune they had. But of late Years the Scene is changed; and tho' at this day there are divers Instances to be seen of that Power of their Lords; yet their present Case is much better, and the Yoke easier than it was before.

Their Affection to the Heads of their Tribes.

Nor are they more obedient to their Lords, than affectionate to their Clans, and the Heads of their Tribes, or Families, whom they usually have so great a regard to, that they will not, as far as lies in them, suffer 'em to sink under any Misfortune. But in case of a small Estate, they make an honourable Contribution on their behalf, as a Common Duty or Concern to support the Credit of their Houses.

Their Religion.

Their Religion, as to outward Profession, is for the most part after the Establishment of the Kingdom; yet too many not only retain the Irish Language, but the Irish Religion; and not a few profess no Religion at all, but are next door to Barbarity and Heathenism. However in

the

A Short Account of Scotland, &c.

7

he general they have so great a Veneration for Ministers, or Men in Holy Orders, that notwithstanding their natural roughness, and perhaps rudeness to other sort of Travellers, these Persons Coats are a sufficient Protection and Passport to them throughout that part of Scotland. Which respect is grounded on a Principle they have, That should they in the least injure such a Man, they must not expect to prosper all the Days of their Life. 'Tis true, at the Skirmish at Brechin, some of Colonel Barclay's Dragoons found in one of their Sacks, among other things, a Ministers Gown; and 'twas a hot report at that time, while we were in sight of their Camp, that they used a Clergy-Man hard by very ill both as to Goods and Person. But then this is imputed to the Villainy of the Irish join'd 'em a little before, and who are remarkable Enemies to Men of this Profession. For I was well assured by an old Divine at Perth, who had spent many Years among 'em, that this was not the way of the High-Landers themselves who revered Gown-Men to a degree, not much short of Superstition. They are constant in their Habit or Their Habit way of Clothing; Pladds are most in use with 'em, which tho' we English thought inconinconvenient, especially for Swords Men in times of Action, and in heat of Summer, as when we saw 'em; yet they excused themselves on these accounts, That they not only served them for Cloaths by Day in case of necessity, but were Pallars or Beds in the Night at such times as they travelled and had not opportunities for better Accommodation, and for that reason in Campaigns were not unuseful: The Low-Landers add, That being too often Men of Prey, by this means they cover their Booty the better, and carry it off without the Owners knowledge. These Pladds are about seven or eight yards long, differing in fineness according to the Abilities or Fancy of the Wearers. They cover the whole Body with 'em from the Neck to the Knees, excepting the Right Arm, which they mostly keep at liberty. Many of 'em have nothing under these Garments besides Waistcoats and Shirts, which descend no lower than the Knees, and they so gird 'em about the Middle as to give 'em the same length as the Linen under 'em, and thereby supply the defect of Drawers and Breeches.

Stockings. Those who have Stockings, make 'em generally of the same piece with their Pladds, not knit or weaved, but sow'd together gether, and they tie 'em below the knee with Tufted Garters.

They wear a sort of Shooes, which they ^{Shooes.} call Brocks, like our Pumps, without heels, of a very thin Sole, and affording little security from the Wet or Stones, which is their main use and chiefly intended for.

They cover their Heads with Bonnets ^{Hats.} or Thrum-Caps, not unlike those of our servitors, tho' of a better consistence to keep off the Weather. They are Blue, Grey, or Sad-colour'd, as the Purchaser thinks fit; and are sometimes lined according to the Quality of their Master.

The Quarrels and Animosities between ^{Their} their Great Ones, made it always necessa- ^{Arms.}
ry in Elder Times to be very well Armed, and the Custom continues to this Day;
so that you shall seldom see 'em tho' only taking the Air, without Sword and Dirk, which is a short Dagger. In War, they had formerly Bows and such kind of Ar- rows as once entered the Body, could not be drawn out without tearing away the Flesh with 'em: But now they carry Muskets and other Fire-Arms; And when they are on the Defensive Part, they depend much on the Target or Targets, which are Shields of that form the Latines call by

by the Name of Chyres, round and equidistant from the Center: And are made of the toughest Wood they can get, lined within and cover'd without with Skins, fenced with Brass Nails, and made so serviceable that no ordinary Bullet, much less a Sword can penetrate to injure them or their Masters, who have such an artificial way of twisting themselves within the compass of these Shields, that 'tis almost a vain attempt for their Enemy to seek to annoy 'em. And indeed they fight with too much odds, when they come so near us, because they not only have the protection of their Backlers, but are withal very expert at their Swords, which consist of the best Blades now in being, and were therefore much sought after by our Officers and Souldiers, who were very well furnished with 'em before we left the High-Lands.

Their Pillaging the Low-Lands.

Once or twice a Year, great numbers of 'em get together and make a Descent into the Low-Lands, where they Plunder the Inhabitants, and so return back and disperse themselves. And this they are apt to do in the profoundest Peace, it being not only natural to 'em to delight in Rapine, but they do it on a kind of Principle and in conformity to the prejudice they continually have to the Low-landers, whom they generally take for many Enemies.

The Low-Lands.

THE Low-Lands are so called by way of comparison, and as they relate to the High-Lands I just spoke of. Not but that the Mountains here are both numerous and lofty, and we pass not many Miles without climbing some of 'em (so that this Tract of Ground independent taken, might be very well named the Hill-Country) yet considering its Neighbourhood to the Northern Provinces, whose Mountains are more contiguous and of greater number, it may (in some measure) justify the distinction; tho' I should chuse rather to make the difference between 'em on the account of the Language, Garb, Humour and Spirit of the People, than the strict Etymology of the word, or Situation of the Country. We take the Low-Landers to be a Med-Low-Landers. ley of Picts, Scots, French, Saxons, and English, as their Language and Habit insinuate, which is the reason why the High-Landers who look on themselves to be be a Purer Race, cannot affect 'em; but on the contrary deal with 'em as a Spurious degenerate People. And indeed the Low-Landers abate much of that true Courage anciently and deservedly given their Fore-fathers. Whether it be that they degenerate in their Kind, or become Soft and Effeminate by their daily converse with Politer Nations, we know not; but certain it is, they fall short of their Ancestors Spirit (whether Picts or Scots) and in case of a Breach, the High-Landers think it advantage enough, they have only these Men to fight with. An instance of which we had at the Battle of Gillicranky, where, upon the approach of the High-Landers, the Scottish Forces on our side scoured away, and left one only Regiment, that of Colonel Hastings, to bear the Charge and Fury of the Enemy.

Provision

The Low-Landers have plenty of most sorts of Grain, especially Oats and Barley. And as for Cattel, though they have large *Herd*s and Legs of their own, yet their Plenty of this kind, depends much on the yearly Descent of the High-Landers, who come hither with considerable Drovers to exchange for Corn, when their own is spent at home.

Their

Their Habit is mostly English, saving ^{Their Habit.} that the meaner sort of Men wear Bonnets instead of Hats, and Pladds instead of Cloaks: And those Pladds the Women also use in their ordinary Dress when they go abroad, either to Market or Church. They cover Head and Body with 'em, and are so contrived as to be at once both a Scarf and Hood. The Quality go thus Attired when they would be disguised, and is a Morning-Dress good enough when some hasty business calls them forth, or when the Weather disheartens 'em to Trick themselves better.

Their Language is generally English, ^{The Language.} but have many words derived from the French, and some peculiar to themselves. They are great Criticks in Pronunciation, and often upbraid us for not giving every word its due sound, as when we call enough enou, or enuff, without making it a guttural, but neglecting the gh as if not written. Wherein however they are as faulty themselves, as I shew'd 'em by divers Examples in their daily Discourse; particularly their neglect of Vowels is very remarkable, which being few, ought to be pronounced with greater care. As when o happens to terminate the word, especially monosyllables, bles, they change it into a, as wha for who, twa for two, &c. and if in the middle, they say Steans for Stones, mare for more, &c. all which they no otherwise excused than by Custom and usage of Speech, which is our Apology for the like misrepresentations in words objected to us. They have an unhappy Tone, which the Gentry and Nobles cannot overcome, tho' Educated in our Schools, or never so conversant with us; so that we may discover a Scotchman as soon as we hear him speak: Yet, to say Truth, our Northern and Remote English have the same imperfection.

Rich and Factions. They have the advantage of their Brethren in the North, as to Trade and Merchandice. Which is the reason why they are more Factions than the rest of the Kingdom, the Spirit of Schism usually reigning in such places where the People are rich to reward their Teachers.

This is all occurs at present concerning the Low-Lands, as before distinguished. What I add more, Treats of the Scotch in common.

Their way of going. Their Ordinary Women go bare-foot, especially in the Summer. Yet the Husbands have Shoes, and therein seem unkind in letting their Wives bear those hard-hardships without partaking themselves. Their Children fare no better when scarce able to go. But, what surprised me most, some of the better sort, Lay and Clergy, made their Little Ones go in the same manner, which I thought a piece of Cruelty in them, what I imputed to the others Poverty. But their Apology was, The Custom of the Country, grounded on an ancient Law, that no Males were to use Shooes till Fourteen Years of Age, that so they might be hardened for the Wars when their Prince had occasion for their Service.

Their Bread, for the most part, is of Their Bread. Oat-Meal, which is thin and well baked upon broad Irons or Stones for that purpose, is palatable enough, and often brought to Gentlemens Tables. But the Vulgar are not so curious, for they only water the Meal into a convenient consistence, and then making 'em into thick Cakes, called Bannocks, they set 'em before the Fire to be hardened or toasted for their use. These People prepare the Oats after this manner; They take several Sheaves, and setting Fire to 'em consume the Straw and Chaff to Ashes, which after a convenient time they blow away, then gathering up the Grain sufficiently parched, they bruise it into Meal.

Their Flesh.

Their Flesh is good enough, yet I confess it will not keep as long as that in England, which they say proceeds from the largeness of the Pores, exposing it more than elsewhere to the Air and Weather.

Butter and Cheese.

Their Cheese is not the best, nor Butter, made in part of Ewes-Milk, which did not relish with us, yet we could not tempt 'em to forbear that mixture.

Their Drink.

Their Drink is Beer, sometimes so new, that it is scarce cold when brought to Table. But their Gentry are better provided, and give it Age: Yet think not so well of it as to let it go alone, and therefore add Brandy, Cherry-Brandy, or Brandy and Sugar, and is the Nectar of this Country, at their Feasts and Entertainments, and carries with it a mark of great Esteem and Affection. Sometimes they have Wine (a thin bodied Claret) at 10 d. the Muskin, which answers our Quart, but is no more than half of the Scotch Pint; and thereupon they tell us, that if their Drink be not so good as ours, yet their Measure is better: But the difference lies only in the Terms, for the Proportions are alike, and we paid as much much for their Chopping as for the Pint here, containing the same quantity.

They have Poultry and Fowls in convenient plenty. Among the rest there is the Solon-Goose, a large Bird, but tastes more of Fish than Flesh, because accustomed to the Sea, and feeds there oftner than in other Places. The Inhabitants say, that the manner of its Production is this: She lets fall her Egg according to the Season on the side of a Rock, which having a slimy glutinous matter about it, fastens it self to the place where it happens to fall, nor can it be removed without danger of breaking it to pieces. And sometimes the Egg is so untowardly fix'd, that there is no more room for the Bird to come at it, than with one of her Feet, which she spreads on the upper part of the Egg, rests on it with her whole Body, and in time, with the heat of her Foot produces the young one, which from this way of hatching, takes its Name, and is called Solon, quasi Sole on, from the Sole of the Dam's Foot, which after this manner gives it Being. But whether so or no, I am not sure; you have the Relation.

The Houses of their Quality are High ^{Their} and Strong, and appear more like Castles ^{Houses} than than Houses, made of thick Stone Walls, with Iron-Bars before their Windows, suited to the necessity of those Times they were built in, living then in a State of War, and constant Animosities between their Families. Yet now they begin to have better Buildings, and to be very modish both in the Fabrick and Furniture of their Dwellings: Tho' still their Avenues are very indifferent, and they want their Gardens, which are the Beauty and Pride of our English Seats. The Vulgar Houses, and what are seen in the Villages, are low and feeble. Their Walls are made of a few Stones jumbled together without Mortar to cement them: On which they set up pieces of Wood meeting at the top, Ridge-fashion, but so order'd, that there is neither Sightliness nor Strength, and it does not cost much more time to Erect such a Cottage, than to pull it down. They cover these Houses with Turff of an inch thick, and in the shape of larger Tiles which they fasten with Wooden Pins, and renew as often as there is occasion; and that is very frequently done. 'Tis rare to find Chimneys in these places; a small Vent in the Roof sufficing to convey the Smoak away. So that considering the Humility of those Roofs,

Roofs, and the Gross Nature of the Fuel, we may easily guess what a smother it makes, and what little Comfort there is in sitting at one of their Fires. However in their Towns and Cities the case is otherwise: But of them, when I come to particular Places. 'Twas Matter of wonder at first that so great a Corn-Country as Scotland is, should not be able to afford 'em Straw enough to Thatch the Houses: But calling to mind their want of Hay, which makes 'em employ the Straw in feeding their Horses as well as Foddering their other Cattel, I was quickly satisfied as to this point, and thereupon chose rather to pity their Poverty, than charge 'em with ill Contrivance in the Covering of their Cells.

Orchards they have few. And their Apples, Pears, and Plumbs are not of the best kind. Their Cherries are tolerably good. And they have one sort of Pear, large and well tasted, but seldom had. Wall-Fruit is very rare. But for Goosberries, Currans, Strawberries, and the like, they have of each; but growing in Gentlemens Gardens, and yet from thence we sometimes meet with 'em in the Markets of their Boroughs.

Their Fire.

They have excellent Pit-Coal, so bituminous and pitchy, that it burns like a Candle, and is both pleasant and useful. But this is chiefly for their Gentry and Boroughs; the Common People deal in Peat and Turff, cut and dried in the Summer, and would be no bad Fuel, but that at first kindling, it makes a very thick and offensive Smother.

Their Snush.

They are fond of Tobacco, but more from the Snush-Box than Pipe. And they have made it so necessary, that I have heard some of 'em say, That should their Bread come in competition with it, they would rather Fast than their Snush should be taken away. Yet mostly it consists of the coursest Tobacco, dried by the Fire, and powdered in a little Engine after the form of a Tap, which they carry in their Pockets, and is both a Mill to grind, and a Box to keep it in.

Women capable of Titles.

The Women of Scotland are capable of Estates and Honours, and inherit Both as well as the Males; and therefore after Marriage may retain their Maiden-Name. But one disadvantage they lie under, That in case the Husbands die without a Will, they claim no Thirds, which is a consideration awes 'em a little, and makes 'em more obsequious to their Husbands.

Most

Most of their Titles of Honour are derived from England, brought thence into Scotland in the Second Century by Malcomb the Third, who had been a great while a Guest in our Prince's Court. But one degree seems peculiar to themselves concerning their Lairds; which, tho' some compare to our Freeholders with independant Tenures, yet being Matters of Royalties, they cannot be less than the English Lords of Mannors, and from these Regalities they assume to themselves Titles, as many do among us, both here and in Wales.

The Water is good. And they have several considerable Rivers; the chief whereof, which fell within my knowledge and are Navigable, were the Fryth, the Tay, and the Clide. The first runs from Leith to Sterling, and further upwards with Tide. The next from Dundee to Perth; and the last from the Irish Sea to Glasgow. Three very serviceable Currents, and would contribute much to enrich the bordering Places if they had sufficient Shipping.

This makes the Trade of this Kingdom inconsiderable, having, as was said, very few Ships, and those of light burden. With these they fetch their Wines from France,

France, and some other Commodities had from thence and Ireland: But other Merchandice comes at second hand from the Citizens of London and Bristol.

Money.

Money of their own Coining they have little, for want of Bullion; and therefore make use of all Foreign Stamps, especially the Elector of Cologne's, which by Reputation or Weight pass currant among 'em. The Spanish Cobbs, half Cobbs, and quarter Cobbs, are commonly put in the Scales. And so were formerly Dollars of all sorts. But now to save trouble, they divide 'em into two sorts, the Rix-Dollar at 4*s.* 10*d.* and the Leg-Dollar at 4*s.* 8*d.* and so in proportion for the lesser pieces.

The Coins properly Scotch, consist of these pieces, Crowns Coined in the Minority of King James the Sixth, having the Arms on the one side, and a Sword on the Reverse with that Treasonable Circumscription, Si me reor pro me, si non in me, made by Buchanan, his Preceptor. There are three lesser pieces of this Impression 1*s.* 3*d.* 1*s.* 8*d.* and 2*s.* 11*d.* which is all I saw of that Coin. They have likewise Crowns, Half Crowns, Marks, and Nobles of King Charles II's; Ten Groat Pieces, Ten Penny, and Three Pence Half Pennies of King James VII's;

But

but Shillings and Six Pence they have none peculiar to the Nation, nor any Current Gold but what is common with England, which they advance and give six Pence more for every Jacobus or Gur-

They shew some Vanity in the Stile of their Money: For they call a Badel, Two Pennies, tho' no more than the sixth part of our Penny. So that should they have occasion to mention three Half Pence or two Pence Half Penny, they chuse rather to call the one 18 Pennies, and the other 30. Each of our Pence is with them a Shilling; and our Twenty Pence is a Scotch Pound. Their Mark is 13 d. of our Money, and the half of that is their Noble. And by the number of these Pieces it is they reckon the Estates and Fortunes of their People. As when a Man is supposed worth 50 l. per Annum Sterling, they call it near 1000 Mark, which bears a bigger sound, tho' it adds nothing to the Substance of the Party.

They have many Bridges for the ease and safety of Travellers, very strong and well built, sometimes consisting but of one mighty Arch, whose height and breadth deserves admiration.

Stage.

Coaches.

Stage-Coaches they have none, yet there are a few Hackneys at Edinburg, which they may hire into the Country upon urgent occasions. The truth is, the Roads will hardly allow 'em those Conveniencies which is the reason that their Gentry Men and Women, chuse rather to use their Horses. However their Great Men often Travel with Coach and Six, but with so much caution, that besides their other Attendance, they have a Lusty Running Footman on each side the Coach, to manage and keep it up in rough places.

Posts.

But this Carriage of Persons from place to place, might be better spared, were there opportunities and means for the Speedier Conveyance of Business by Letter. They have no Horse-Posts besides those that ply 'twixt Berwick and Edinburg, and from thence to Port-Patrick, for the sake of the Irish Packers; and, if I forget not every Town the Post passes through, contributes to the Charges. But from Edinburg to Perth, and so to other Places they use Foot-Posts and Carriers, which tho' a slow way of Communicating our Concerns to one another, yet is such as they acquiesce in till they have a better.

The Revenue of Scotland is low; some computed it at 30000*l* per Annum Sterling.

ling

g in the Reign of King James VI. but er the Restoration, the Parliament anted King Charles II. an Addition, erwards continued, besides what is sed on emergent Occasions, which ner amounts to a very great Summ, tho' metimes heavy enough, considering the ountry. The nature of which Income, d what the Crown-Expences are, you ve by it self in the Appendix.

As to the Forces, Their main Depen-^{The For-} ce is on the Militia, and the Tenures^{ces.}
 the Nobles and Gentry, who are obed to find the King so many Men in ne of Service; and who thinking the rden too heavy to continue 'em long, ey seldom exceed Forty Days before they e disbanded. Yet of late Years some all number of Horse, Foot, and Dra- ons are kept standing, as appears in the stablishments of King Charles II. 1678. d 1681. which I refer you to in the ose of this Account.

The Civil Government.

THE Government of Scotland is Mo-^{The Go-} narchical, and has been so (they vernment,
 y) for above Two thousand Years, rec-oning 112 Kings from Fergus I. to King

King William III. lately deceased. Catalogue opposed by several of our English Writers, but maintain'd by Sir George Makenzy, a Scotch Gentleman, and the Reasons answered, which invalidate that ancient Tradition.

The Prerogative.

The Authority of their Princes was heretofore very much eclipsed by the Power of their Nobles; But upon the Union with England, the Prerogative began to receive some Lustre, and was at length ferew'd to such a pitch, as to be obey'd without reserve, which is an attainment may tempt Princes to Arbitrary Power but before they can gain their Ends of the Subject, they do some things to ruin themselves.

Parliaments.

Princes are Men as well as others, and have their Mistakes, even when they design to do well. So that 'tis both the Safety and Wisdom to call such to their Assistance, as are by their Advice best able to answer their Royal Intentions. None are better qualified for this Great Affair, than such Gentlemen, who being dispersed through the Kingdom, have opportunities to see the State of Things, and can best represent the Necessities of the People committed to their Charge; and to whose good Providence intrusts 'em with much Authority and Power. And therefore Good Princes, True Fathers of their Country, summon by their Writs a competent number of such Gentlemen, and give 'em liberty to express their Thoughts, and propose Means for the Welfare of the Governor and Government to which they belong: Which, if well consider'd, be the Origin and Cause of all Parliaments in the World, might contribute a great deal to indear mutually King and People: Invite him on the one hand to receive those who so chearfully attend from their Quarters, to serve him with their Counsel and Purfes, and oblige them on the other to honour and respect Him, who allows 'em this Interest in his Government, and by virtue of whose Seal they sit as Parliament-Men.

And as Parliaments seem thus derived from the Condescensions and good Dispositions of the best Princes, to have their help in the most important Emergencies: the Princes themselves have sometimes thought fit to limit their Advice, and direct it to the Occasion of calling them together, thereby to prevent all Temptations to immodest and extravagant questions.

Their Advice limited.

The

Parliaments of Scotland.

The Kings of Scotland, as of England govern by Parliaments, made out of the Three Estates, Lords Spiritual, Lords Temporal, and Commons, which are called by the Royal Writ to treat of arduous Matters. Yet are not left to their own Heads concerning the Points to be debated at their Sessions, but are bounded and guided by a certain number of their Fellow Peers commissioned by the King, according to the Usage and Constitution of that Kingdom: And these are commonly known by the Name of the Lords of the Articles, being in number 32.

Lords of the Articles.

8 Bishops chosen by the King.

8 Nobles chosen by the Bishops.

8 Knights of Shires chosen by the Nobles.

8 Burgesses chosen by the Knights, or Barons, as they are sometimes called.

What these propose, the Parliament may debate without Offence, but are not to offer any thing else not mentioned in the Articles.

But I should rather say, This was, than that it is, the Constitution of Scotland at this time. For it was one of the Grievances vances presented to, and allow'd by K. W. So that now they are, I think, left to an Absolute Liberty to propose what they will.

The Election of their Knights and Bar-^{Their Ele-}gessees is much after the manner we observe in England, by the Majority of the Voters, as they are qualified by Law or Custom. In the Cities and Towns ever since the Reign of K. James the 6th. the Lord Provost, and Bailiffs, with a certain number of Towns-men in the nature of our Common Council, by their Majority determine the Election. But at the time of the Convention this Custom was broken; and upon the Prince of Orange's Circular Letters, a Power of Choice was given the Inhabitants at large; which, tho' done pro hac vice, the People will hardly consider it an extraordinary Case, but take themselves as well qualified to judge of, and return Members to other Parliaments.

The Lords and Commons of Scotland, tho' ^{The Three} of different Quality, and not called after ^{Estates sit} the same manner, yet ^{together.} sit all together in one Place. And as here at Westminster, the Two first Estates of Parliament are join'd in one House: So there at Edinburgh, the whole Three Estates Sit, and Vote promiscuously, miscuously, and go by the Plurality of Voices, the Lords having no Power, as a Body of Nobility, to stop any Motion, but act in common with the Gentlemen, who are their Peers in all Publick and Parliamentary Business.

The High Commissioner.

During Sessions of Parliament (since the Union) there is a Vice-Roy, called the High-Commissioner, who for that time personates the King, and makes what Laws the House has prepared, giving the Royal Assent by a Touch with the Scepter. He sits on the King's Throne, with the Lord President just under him; Has his Residence in the Palace-Royal, Rides in the King's Coach; and while the Parliament sits, has an honourable allowance for the Expence of his Retinue and Table.

Their Ministers of State.

In the Intervals or Absence of Parliaments, the Affairs of State are managed by a Privy Council of different Qualities, and an uncertain number.

Their Courts.

Their Principal Officers are an High Commissioner (in time of Parliament) a Lord Chancellour, a Lord Privy-Seal, a Lord Treasurer, a Lord-Advocate, and a Lord Justice Clark: Whose Salaries or Pensions you may see in the Establishment annex'd to these Papers.

They

They have several Courts of Judicature, besides the High Court of Parliament, and Privy Council, which takes cognizance of all Riots, and other violent Acts tending to the Contempt or Disturbance of the Government; viz.

1. The Lords of the Session, or College Their of Justice, consisting chiefly of 15 Law-Courts. Justices, but have added to 'em such a number of Noblemen, as the King thinks fit, to assist and give 'em countenance. These are concerned in Civil Causes, and give their Judgment according to the Civil Law as well as Statutes of the Kingdom, and answers in some degree the Court of Common Pleas in England.

2. There is a Court (like our King's-Bench) allotted Criminal Matters, but is distinguish'd by its Officers: One whereof is called the Justice-General, and his Province is with the Laity. The Other intitled the Justice-Clark (à Clero) because he takes cognizance of the Actions of the Clergy.

3. The Court of Admiralty is basied in Sea-Affairs.

4. A Commissary, or Consistorial-Court, like our Bishops Courts, where Wills, Marriages, Divorces, Scandals, &c. are examined. And to this Appeals are made from the Parish, or Kirk-Sessions; and from thence, upon occasion, a farther Appeal to the College of Justice.

5. Sheriffs-Courts, where (within such a Precinct) they consider Civil Actions. But in case of Partiality, there may be an Appeal to the College of Justice.

6. In opposition to these last, there are Courts of Regalities, which are Exemptions from the Sheriffs-Courts; and within their Bounds they may hang, or otherwise punish Offenders. They were begun by the King to curb the Sheriffs, who are very potent in their Jurisdications, because the Office is Hereditary, descending to 'em with their Estates and Honours, and not held by the Princes Pleasure.

Criminals are punish'd after the English way, by hanging or beheading, according to the degree of the Crime, or quality of the Person. But the Instrument to execute the Nobility is much before our Axe. 'Tis called the Maiden, and is a broad Piece

Piece of Iron about a Foot square, exceeding sharp on the lower part, and loaded above with such a weight of Lead that you can scarce lift it. At the time of Execution 'tis pulled up to the top of a narrow Wooden Frame, about 11 or 12 Foot high, and of the breadth of the Engine, with Rabbets or Crevices on each side for the Maiden to run in. About four Foot from the Ground, a Conveniency is made in that Frame for the Prisoner to lay his Neck, with a kind of Bar so fasten'd as to keep him from stirring. Then upon a Sign given, the Maiden is let loose, and in a moment parts the Head from the Shoulders. The Scotch Historians say, that the Fashion of this Engine was taken from one at Hallifax in Torkshire, and was brought to Scotland in the Minority of K. James the 6th. by Duke Morton, (if I mistake not) who had Pharlaris's Fate to suffer first by that way of beheading.

Their Punishments.

They have several ways to torture suspected Persons, and bring 'em to Confession. One is by the Boot, made of four Pieces of narrow Boards nailed together, of a competent length for the Leg, not unlike those short Cases we use to guard young Trees from the Rabbets.

In this they put the Leg of the Party, which they wedge so tight on all sides, that not being able to bear the Pain they promise Confession to be rid of it. Something like it they have for the Thumb, to squeeze and bruise it, which they call the Thumb-kin; but I did not see it.

The Church-Government.

The Church of Scotland.

I Go not about to account for the Year of the Scotch Conversion, nor observe the Steps made to propagate Christianity in this Northern and remote Country. I examine not how often the Attempt was to do it, or by whom: Nor when it was added to the Province of York, or how separated from it: And in general I take no notice how it fared under the Romish Religion. My Design is to consider it only as a Reformed Church, govern'd by its own Laws, and without any dependence on Foreigners; and more especially represent the State I found it in at the Revolution, but is now unhappily dissolved by a Faction of that Kingdom, who know not when they are well.

Many Alterations of it.

The Church of Scotland, since the Reformation, has suffer'd many Convulsions and and Changes in its Government, some so dangerous, that they hazarded its very Being. 'Twill not be unnecessary to give a short History of the Alterations it had within the compass of 140 Years; the rather, because on the late discharge of Episcopacy, it was warmly debated in Parliament, what Form of Church Government they should pitch upon to succeed it. In handling of which Question, they were forced to refer to the Prior Forms in the Days of their Fathers, and which you have in the following lines.

The Reformation of the Church of Govern'd Scotland took effect in the Year 1560. ^{by Super-} under the Conduct of Mr. Knox; and, ^{intendants.} as they were then called, The Lords of the Congregation. From which time the Church was managed by Super-intendants, the Latin of Bishops, and proper Translation of the Greek ἐπίσκοπος, signifying an Overseer, and by usage of Speech, a Bishop. These Super-intendants presided in all their Assemblies, had Presentations directed to them; Ordain'd Ministers and order'd all Ecclesiastical Affairs by, and with the Advice of their Presbytery in their respective Meetings and Synods. So that indeed it was no other than a Moderate Episcopacy, tho' they alter'd the Name for the great aversion they had to the Popish Prelates, who had a little before carried it high over 'em.

The Form and Order of Electing their Super-intendants (which served in chusing all other Ministers) was this: At Edinburg, March 9. 1560. John Knox being Moderator, First was made a Sermon upon these Heads: 1. The Necessity of Ministers and Super-intendants. 2. The Crimes and Vices which made 'em incapable of the Ministry. 3. The Qualifications of such Ministers. 4. Whether such as were Qualified and Called to this Office, might refuse the same. The Sermon finished, it was declared by the Preacher, That the Lords of the Secret Council had given Charge and Power to the Churches of Lothien to chuse Mr. John Spotswood Super-intendant, and that sufficient notice hereof was made by publick Edict to the Churches of Edinburg, Linlithgow, Sterling, Trenent, Haddington, and Dunbar, as also to Earls, Lords, Barons, Gentlemen and others, who had any Right or Interest in the Election, to be present that Day: Accordingly enquiry was made who were present and who absent, and an Account thereof taken and Register'd. After which John Spotswood wood was called, who answering, the Preacher demanded if any Person knew any Impediment to disable the said Mr. John for that Office? This Question was thrice asked: And no objection being made, the People were asked again, whether they had any other to offer to stand in competition with the said Mr. Spotswood? And no body being offer'd, it was farther demanded, Whether they would have him for their Superintendant, to honour and obey him as a Minister of Christ, and assist him in every thing appertaining to his Charge. To which they answered, We will and do promise him such Obedience as becometh the Sheep to give to their Pastor, so long as he remain'd faithful in his Office. Then turning to Mr. Spotswood, he proposes these Questions to him — Whether he thought himself bound in Conscience to comply with the Desire and Choice of the People, and serve 'em to his Power in this Office. Whether he had sought this Office, or desired it out of any Worldly respects. Whether he believed the Scripture contain'd all things necessary to Salvation. Whether he was fully perswaded that Jesus was the Christ, and that there was no Salvation without him. Whether he owned that they whom God

in

in his eternal Counfel hath *elect*ed, be called to the Knowledge of his Son Jesus Christ; and being so called, are justified and by that Justification and Remission of Sins, are made capable of everlasting Glory. Whether he will take care to his Doctrine, and let it be wholly built on this Foundation, and let his Life be answerable to it. And in case of Humane Infirmities, whether he will be subject to the Discipline of the Church, and not take it ill to be reprehended by his Brethren? All which he answers in the Affirmative. Then after a Prayer on that Occasion, all the Ministers and Elders of the Church, in sign of approbation, take the Elect by the Hand; which done, the Chief Minister blessing him, and exhorting him to discharge himself diligently and painfully in this Office, they sing together the 23d. Psalm, and so part.

About this time was prescrib'd a Directory brought from Geneva, intituled The whole Church-Discipline with many Godly Prayers, set forth by John Knox, and fighted by John Willock, John Craig, Robert Pont, John Rom, David Lindsay, William Christifone, James Craig, &c. who Licensed it in the Name of the General Assembly. But it was only a Rule to walk by, py, for it might be enlarged or contracted, as the Wisdom of the discreet Minister shall think expedient: For (say they) we shew rather the way to the Ignorant, than prescribe Order to the Learned.

In the Year [1571.] the Parliament sitting, and a General Assembly summon'd to Sterling, the Restitution or Resettlement of Archbishops and Bishops was propos'd: Not that this Government by Super-intendants was uneasie to the People: But the Governours themselves declining in Age, began to consider, that seeing they served in this Employment at their own Charges, 'twould be a difficult work to find Worthy Men to succeed 'em in it, no body being fond of an Office where there was not a Competency to bear up the Grandeur of it. Hereupon at their Motion, a Commission was directed to the Super-intendants of Lothien, Angus and Fife, to consider this matter; and 'twas at last agreed to restore the Hierarchy of Archbishops and Bishops, and let 'em be chosen by their Deans and Chapters. This Proposal was ratified at Perth the following Summer (1572.) and had the Concurrence of Church and State at that time Assembled.

Episcopacy restored.

But

But this Government lasted only a few Years, tho' it laid no greater Burden on the People, than what the Super-intendants did before. For Mr. Andrew Melville coming from Geneva, and after the way of the World, magnifying what he saw abroad; He represented the Church Administration of that City with so much advantage, that he prevailed on Ministers and People at length to accept it. And so in the Year 1580. at an Assembly in Dundee, they condemn'd Episcopacy not only as an inconvenient Government, but in it self unlawful and contrary to the Word of God: So that the Bishops were ejected for some little time till the Minority of King James was over; but he being of Age and coming to Rule himself, espoused their Interest with so much Sincerity and Vigour, that some Dissenting Ministers were forced to fly the Kingdom for opposing him too much. But they returning back with a considerable Force, joined to the Friends they had at home, brought the poor Prince to very hard Terms, obliged him to a Peace in prejudice of Episcopacy, and open'd a way to the Presbyterian Government, which was settled by Act of Parliament, and Episcopacy abolished, Anno Domini 1592.

This

Proper Presbyter
ry.

This last Government consisted of di- vers Classes containing each 15 or 20 Ministers, more or less, according to the di- stances of the Parishes or conveniency of situation, and these they called Presbyteries.
They met where, when, and as often as they thought fit: They had all Presenta- tions brought 'em, which they accepted or refused, as the Presentee stood in their opinions; They Ordain'd Ministers, Examined Scandals, Punished Offenders, and, in a word, all Church Business went through their Hands, which they di-spatch'd by plurality of Voices, every Minister having in that an equal Power, and no one preferr'd before his Brethren, having that for Order sake, every half Year they chose a Moderator, who for that time was President, and had the Charge of what was done at their Meetings.
And that they might preserve as good an understanding between all the Presbyte- ries as was between the Ministers of each in particular; it was resolved in a General Assembly, that a Synod of 7 or 8 Presbyteries should be called twice in the Year, and sit a Week or two to clear some important Doubts, which single Presbyteries would not apart venture to do; and withal make such Acts as might edifie the Church, which

which they intrusted the Moderator with to put in Execution ; an Officer they frequently changed (as in the Presbyteries) till settled and made constant by a National Synod in the Year 1606. This is the notion of the Presbyterian Government, or Presbytery so called, and lasted to the Year 1610.

Full Episcopacy.

At that time a National Synod recalled Episcopacy, afterwards confirmed by Parliament Anno Domini 1612. Then full Power was given the Bishops for Ordination and Church-Rule, assisted by a few Presbyters, but such as themselves were pleased to call, and were accountable only to the King's Supremacy for Male-Administration. This form was stiled Full Episcopacy, and continued till the Year 1638. When the Prelates were again thrust out, and proper Presbytery revived : But were restored after the Great Restauration of King and Kingdom, 1662. and kept their Chairs till the late Revolution, when they and their Clergy were ejected once more, and handled in-an Unchristian, Inhuman manner.

The Forty Nine Government or Rigid Presbytery.

I must not altogether omit one Scheme of Government more among 'em, known by the Emphasis of Forty Nine, because in the Year 1649. settled by Act of Parliament, ament, and may for distinction sake, have the Name of Rigid Presbytery. Hereby all Presentations were taken from the laity, who had no Interest left in the call of their Ministers, unless made an Elder, a Member of their parochial Meetings or Kirk-Sessions, consisting of such Parish-men as they found well affected to that manner of Government, with the Minister of the Place, who was Moderator of all their Debates. And if the Minister died, or was removed, this Eldership met immediately to chuse another, calling some Neighbouring Minister (one of the same Presbytery) to sit as Moderator till the Election was over; which they determined (as in our Vesteries) by the Major number of Votes, without any regard to the Rightful Patron, who, as Patron, sat unconcern'd all the while, and had no influence on the Election. But after some time this way of Choice found little Reception; because divers of their Ministers having had disappointments perhaps by this plurality of Voices, separated from their Brethren, and protesting against the Decisions of those Parish Judicatories, said, Suffragia non sunt nu-meranda sed ponderanda; that the Ministers ought to be chosen not by the Major, but Melior

Melior number, and that all Ecclesiastical Causes were to be tried in the same method, not by the Majority, but Goodness of their Pastors in Presbyteries, Synods, and General Assemblies: But the word Goodness being equivocal, and not only signifying a Moral or Christian Perfection, but sometimes no more than the Inclination or Disposition of a Man to this or that Cause and Party (which was doubtless the meaning of those Dissenters who expected advantage by it) the generality both of Ministers and People adhered to the former way, and tho' the Authors and Abettors of this New Project were very industrious, yet it never amounted to the force (the Scots say the length) of a Constitution, and had no Stamp either Ecclesiastical or Civil. Nor did the other sort of Presbytery continue very long for Anno Domini 1662. the Bishops came in again, and notwithstanding the Covenant and other engagements, were restored to their Estates and Power. And truly, to judge of things impartially without Prejudice or Passion, This seems not only the most Ancient, but the most Natural Government of the Church; and to omit here all other Reasons to justify it, this we may observe by what has been said that in the manifold Revolutions and Changes of the Church of Scotland, and the different Schemes of Government introduced in that Nation, which were found violent and burthenfome, so that the People would not bear 'em long, Their final and common Refuge was Episcopacy, as the proper Government to recover breath again. And tho' the other Forms which they lightly and in blind Zeal sometimes took up, so much differed between themselves, and were seldom or never pitch'd on twice together; yet Episcopacy, which so frequently they had recourse to, was much the same, had the same Face without any material Change or Reformation. And this shows it somewhat more that a bare Humane Appointment which so often varies, and sometimes expires before the Authors themselves.

Episcopacy
the Natural Government.

Before I proceed, I must mention one Form more, which tho' never indeed settled in the Church of Scotland, yet was mention'd in Parliament upon the Revolution, as a very laudable and convenient Government. I mean the Erastian, Erastian. wherein the Minister is not to be otherwise concern'd, than in Praying, Preaching, and Administring Sacraments. The Discipline being to be wholly left to such
D Laymen

Laymen as the State shall appoint for that purpose. It has its Name from one Tho. Erasmus (as I take it) a Swiss Physician, who being cited by the Minister of the Place for Fornication, refuses the Summons, and will not answer. The Minister complain's to the next Synod, who enjoyn'd him penance, and being contumax, they conclude at last with Excommunication. His Apology was, That the Clergy had not, nor ought to have such Power of the Keys; their Province was to Preach as before, but had no Authority to prescribe Penance, or cast People violently out of the Church, which being great Severities, better became the Seculars, and therefore Discipline was to be left to them to preserve Vertue and Peace. This Model of Church-Government met with little encouragement in Parliament. And at length Presbytery was let in, but in such a manner as scandalizes all Religion.

The State of Episcopacy in Scotland.

The Cruelties used on this occasion, which some Great Ones connived at, if not encouraged (to insinuate thereby the Zeal and Inclination of the People) have been accounted for in divers Letters writ on that Subject, and sent from Scotland in the Year 1689. which I shall not transcribe here. All that at present I aim at is, that Tho. who place and omin'd they ion.

To

had
the be-ibe of ies, ore reof
in-at ch
n, if he ve it in ns, o

To show the unreasonableness of so much Heat and Rudeness in shutting Episcopacy out of doors, when its temper in Scotland is such, that tho' in Name and Jurisdiction it is called Episcopal; yet the way of its Administration is so wide from Episcopacy elsewhere, that any Stranger would take it for little else than Presbyterian, and an indifferent Eye that sees the agreement in their Worship and Discipline cannot but think it a Dispute about words, which Temporal Interest and Prejudice decides to the shame of better Reason and Christianity, which ought in all these Cases to sit as Judge. For to examine particulars, under the late Government by Bishops.

i. They had private Courts in every Parish, sometimes called Consistorial, and sometimes Kirk-Sessions, where the Minister as President, and a competent number of Lay-men (according to the Parish) took Cognizance of lesser Scandals, Censured faulty Persons, Reconciled Differences, and did other things tending to good Manners. They met once a Week, kept a Register, which was put into the Custody of the Precentor, or Parish-Clerk, and was produced as often as they had business. In these Meetings the Provost or some other Civil Magistrate was present to give 'em Countenance, inforce their Acts, and awe Sawcy Offenders. Which as it took off much of the Odium the Church had otherwise had, so it made her Censures more terrible upon instances of Scandal.

Presbyteries.

2. They had their Presbyteries likewise, of the same nature and number of Ministers as before represented. Here they handled weightier Matters; Consider'd and Punish'd greater Scandals, and sometimes Capital Crimes, yet only as offences injurious to the Honour and Safety of the Church, not to exempt 'em from the Secular Judges. They met Monthly; had a Sermon in the Church where they sate upon Business: Then Dined together, to compose those little Feuds which might probably arise upon debating Questions.

Synods.

3. They had Provincial Synods, as they call 'em, twice a Year, made of one Bishop and the several Presbyteries within his Jurisdiction. Here the Bishop was President, who took knowledge of what was done in their Ordinary Meetings, examined the most important Scruples, and highest Matters relating to the Church,

Church, and in case any misunderstanding arose between him and his Presbyters, there might be an Appeal to the Metropolitan, or General Assembly, or King, whom the Law made Judge of all such emergencies. So that thus far, in point of Discipline, there seems little difference between the Presbyterians and them, and for the next thing, the Divine Service, they agree as well in it, as we shall see anon.

However tho' their Kirk-Sessions and Presbyteries favour of the Presbyterian Classes, and are, as one might conceive, derived from 'em, and follow 'em so close in the Methods of Governing the People, yet because they allow and respect the Name of Bishop, and give him an Account at their Six Months Synods of what they did in their Presbyteries and Parishes, because as Perpetual Moderator he influenced their Consultations, and had the Power of Mission and Ordination as with us; therefore this Government of their Church was called Episcopal, tho' hardly to be discern'd for such, by Travellers who have seen what Episcopacy is in other places.

why called Episcopal.

They have 14 Bishops, in Scotland, Two Their whereof, viz. St. Andrews and Glasgow, number of Bishops. have have Archiepiscopal Dignity. They are all Peers of the Land, and sit in Parliament. Their Revenues are not great, yet valuable considering the Countrey. 1000 l. Sterling per Year for an Archbishop, and 5 or 600 for a Bishop, is thought a Competency where Provision is very cheap, and a good Table kept with little Charges. Their not having Courts or Cathedrals, lessens their Figure; But tho' this want likens 'em the more to the Presbyterian Party, yet the Enmity holds on, and the very Name of Episcopacy is (to be sure their Revenues are) Popish enough to pull 'em down.

No Courts
nor Cathedrals.

Number of Parishes.

The number of Parishes in Scotland are about 900. But the Ministers exceed that number, because in their larger Towns, every Church hath two Preachers, for the ease of each other. The Ministers are Regular, and whilst Episcopacy kept its standing, The Prelates, and They wore Gowns and Cassocks, which as they are Garments of Distinction, so they warn the Wearers to walk more carefully, and do nothing unbecoming their Profession. They have a greater Equality in their Benefices than the Clergy of England, few exceeding 100 l. Sterling, and as few below 20 l. So that as the first Stipend

The value of their Preferments.

Stipend will hardly allow 'em to live great, the other is not so mean in that cheap Kingdom, but they may live without Scandal.

Their Profits arise partly from Glebe, ^{Their} Tithes, and partly from a Composition with the Heriots, made not so much by Contract as Prescription. It consists of so many Chaldrons of Corn (as they call 'em) and the number differs according to the Extent or Riches of their Parishes. A Chaldron is 16 Bows, and every Bow 14 or 16 Pecks of Grain as is the Custom of the Place.

They have no casual Perquisites, which we call Surplice-Fees: Christnings, Marriages and Burials are gratis, at least nothing is demanded, but left to the Generosity of the Party, which seldom shews it self on these occasions. Yet they have one great advantage which the Constitution gives 'em, That if the incumbent dies before Whitsuntide, the Executor claims the Half Years Profit, beginning at Christmas. If he outlives that Festival, then the whole Years Salary; but if he reaches to One a Clock on Michaelmas-day, he has not that Tear alone, but is intitled to the Half Tear following. And I the rather take notice of this Custom, from, to shew the hard usage the Bishops had, who, tho' not discharged till the Month of July, yet were by Proclamation denied the Profits of that Year. And tho' many of the Inferior Clergy receiv'd no other Sentence of Ejectment, Suspension or Deprivation, but that of the Rabble, yet the Heriotors refused to pay, and there was no Redress for it.

A Custom.

The Ministers of Scotland crave a Besetting on what they eat or drink at any hour, tho' only a Glass of Wine, or a Quaff of Beer to treat a Visitant. And this they repeat as often as fresh Company invites 'em to it. And after an Entertainment, as soon as the Table is rid, the Mistress of the House shakes the Guests by the Hand one after another, as a Testimony that she meant 'em welcome.

Their Uniformity.

I Know of no Book of Canons they have, except the Perth Articles, and the Directory above-mentioned, which they also seem to have an Eye to, and are very Uniform by that means, in their Workshop and Discipline; which is much helped by the Pastoral Letters sent the Presbyteries, and their frequent Synods at which the Presbyteries meet together. And tho' they have very rarely a General Assembly to draw together all the Presbyteries at at once, yet the constant Correspondence they hold with one another, and the often Meeting of the Bishops, especially in Parliament time, is found sufficient to procure and preserve Uniformity, and make 'em speak and do the same thing.

The Churches of Scotland differ according to the Abilities and Tempers of the People where these Religious Buildings are. In the Countrey they are poor and mean, covered no better than their ordinary Cottages, and some of 'em so low, that they may be compared to the subterraneous Houses of Hungary, or like the Primitive Oratories we read of in times Persecution, more like Caves than Churches: But in the Boroughs and Cities they are Brick'd and Tile'd, and well enough furnished with Galleries and other Conveniencies for the Parishioners. The Precentor's Desk is under the Pulpit, and under him the Stool of Penance, or rather a Bench for five or six to sit on, to be seen by the Congregation, and bear the shame of their Crimes.

Chancels they have none, nor Altars: And tho' there are Tables for the use of the Presbyteries and to administer the Sacrament, yet they are differently placed in several Churches, lest the Uniform Situation

No Chancels nor Altars.

tion of 'em might end in Superstition, so very careful was the Episcopal Church of Scotland not to give offence to the Presbyterian, that She became little more than Presbyterian her Self, to reconcile that Party to Her.

No Bells: Bells they have none, or very rare, excepting the Saints Bell to call the Presbytery or Congregation together. Yet on the *Steeple*s, besides the Hand-Dial, they have an Engine to shew the Change, or Age of the Moon, and how she appears in her several Quarters.

The Divine Service and Offices.

No Liturgy or

THOUGH a Liturgy and Uniformity in Worship was a thing often thought on, and desired in Scotland after the Reformation, and was attempted in the Reign of K. James the Sixth, as appears in the Preface of the Common Prayer-Book design'd for 'em, yet it took no effect till K. Charles I. came to the Crown; who making a Northern Progress in the Year 1633. was easily perswaded by the Advice of Bishop Laud, and some of the prime Officers of that State, who were secretly Enemies to the Bishops (because
 by

by that good Prince's Favour they sometimes shared in the Civil Ministry, and had the Chancellorship, or the like Place of Profit and Trust conferr'd upon 'em) resolved on a Set Form of Divine Worship; and accordingly four Years after, notice was given at Edinburgh, that the Book would be ready the Lord's Day following; and to make its way the easier, preparatory Discourses were had from the Pulpit in commendation of it, and the like kinds of Service. The Motion did not relish, but gave advantage to the Malecontents to raise those Tumults and Disorders which thereupon followed. For first the Women of Edinburgh began the Disturbance, whose Fury the Bishop of the Place narrowly escaped, as he was going home from the High Church, where he had been present for the greater Solemnity of that Days Service. The Women, as at first privately excited by the Men, so they were afterwards openly back'd by many thousands got together, who never rested till they got the Liturgy laid aside, engaged themselves in the Covenant against it, raised an Army of 1800 Foot, 2000 Horse, and 1000 Dragoons for that end; and, in a word, not only brought Bishop Land, but the Good King himself himself to the Block, and the Church in both Kingdoms to Persecution and Ruin.

But besides the Aversion the Mob of the Country have to Set-Forms of Prayer. Three things concurred at that time which made it almost impossible for the Liturgy to be admitted.

1. It was set on foot by a Foreigner (A. B. Laud) upon the Importunity of some Young Bishops in the Church of Scotland, who made it their business to oppose the Ancients, and thought it Matter of Triumph to carry any Point against 'em. Now the reason of that Emulation, if not Animosity, was this. It was King James the 6th. his Method on the Vacancy of a Bishoprick to require the Archbishop of St. Andrew's to give him a List of three or four able Ministers, that out of them he might pitch on One to fill the Chair again. By which means none were admitted to that Order, but such as had a good Report, and were Men of Vertue and Merit. However, as the Best things are misrepresented, 'twas hereupon given out, that the Preferments of the Church were purely in the hands of the Bishops, who for that reason drew on themselves the Malice of the Seculars, that love to have a Finger in all the Patronages of highest Importance; Not to say, that the Clergy themselves were disgusted by this Method, such especially who esteem'd well of themselves, and thought their Abilities overlooked in not being preferred as well as others. However thus it rested till King Charles came to the Throne, who was prevail'd on by specious Pretences to break this Custom; and thereupon made such Men Bishops as the Courtiers recommended, and who would be sure to remember the Old Ones, who had kept them out so long. However they were still Minors, as well in Number as Time, and therefore could do no great Matters in opposition to their Seniors, till they found out a way to correspond with B. Laud, whom they importunately solicited to obtain a Commission from the King, that they might prescribe some Rules to the Church, such as they thought fit, tho' judged never so inexpedient by the other Sages. Among other things the Liturgy was set on Foot; but whether at Bishop Laud's Motion to Them, or Theirs to Him, is not very material. Certain it is, the young Gentlemen were great Sticklers for it, when the expe-

experienced Prelates could not be heard at that time. So that this was one Bar to the Common Prayer, because the Bishops themselves did not at all agree about it, but was look'd on to be the Off-spring of the Junior-Bishops; whom the People had not that Esteem for, and liked nothing of their proposing.

2. Another false step was this. They resolved on, and contrived a Liturgy without convening a Synod or Ecclesiastical Assembly, which made indifferent Persons, such who were probably Well-wishers to the Liturgy, to treat it coldly, not as a bad Book, but bad in the Consequence; and tho' they might like it as a Form of Prayer, yet they liked not the manner of introducing it; and 'twould be a Precedent to bring in other things by an Arbitrary Power, which might in the end ruine the Church.

3. They imposed the Liturgy on such Places at first, which were most averse to it, whereas in Common Prudence they should have begun in the North, where Episcopacy was in greatest Reputation, and the People ready to receive candidly whatever their Spiritual Governors recommended to 'em. But instead of this, they they read it at Edinburgh, where the discontented Party had the Ascendant, and catch'd at any opportunity to reduce the Church to a Presbyterian Level.

For which, and some such Reasons, 'tis no mighty wonder the Scotch Liturgy succeeded so ill. And I doubt whether the like Attempt would not be dangerous at any time propos'd, tho' I know without, that not only the Episcopal Clergy, but generally speaking the Nobility and Gentry think very well of it, wish it established by Law, and could be content to be made a Province to England, that the English Service might take place in that Country.

However the Episcopal Church have hitherto used no Liturgy at all, no more than the Presbyterians, who now govern; yet She every where agreed in the Way of Worship, and their Whole Service on the Lord's Day (having no Other Holidays except Fasts and Feasts upon special Occasion: For tho' they had a Calendar in the Directory above, where there are the Names of divers Saints, yet 'tis more for the Use of their Fairs, and to know the Age of the Moon, or when the Sun enters the Signs, than any thing else) depends on these Particulars:

First,

First, The Precentor about half an hour before the Preacher comes, reads two or three Chapters to the Congregation, of what part of Scripture he pleases, or as the Minister gives him Directions. As soon as the Preacher gets into the Pulpit, the Precentor leaves Reading, and sets a Psalm, singing with the People, till the Minister by some Sign orders him to give over. The Psalm ended, the Preacher begins, Confessing Sins, and Beginning Pardon, Exalting the Holiness and Majesty of God, and setting before him our Vileness and Propensity to transgress his Commandments. Then he goes to Sermon, delivered always by heart, and therefore sometimes spoiled with Battologies, Little Impertinencies, and Incoherence in their Discourses. The Sermon finish'd, he returns to Prayer; thanks God for that Opportunity to deliver his Word; prays for all Mankind, for all Christians, for that particular Nation, for the Sovereign and Royal Family, without naming any, for Subordinate Magistrates, for Sick People (especially such whose Names the Precentor hands up to him) then concludes with the Lord's Prayer to sanctifie what was said before. After this another Psalm is sung, named by the Minister, and frequently suited to the Subject of his Sermon; which done, he gives the Benediction, and dismisses the Congregation for that time.

This is the Morning-Service, which being repeated pretty early in the Afternoon (because in the interim they eat nothing) makes up the Lord's Day Duty, as to Publick Worship, saving that they forget not the Poor, who are numerous and unprovided for by Law, and so put into the Bason what they think fit, either at their Going in or Coming out, to be disposed of by the Minister and Elders in such Proportions as the Necessities of the People require, and the Summ will allow 'em.

This is the Churches way in Scotland, and it seems to us Presbyterian, and therefore we the more admire that the Two Parties should so much disagree between themselves, when they appear to the World so like Brethren. Truly their difference is hardly discernable: For their Singing of Psalms, Praying, Preaching, and Collections are the same; and 'tis the whole of their Worship in both the Congregations. They both do it after the same manner, saving that after the Psalm the Episcopal Minister uses the Doxology, which the Other omits, and concludes his own Prayer with that of the Lord's, which the Presbyterian refuses to do. Then for the Discipline, 'tis the very same. Both practise it the same way in their Parish-Consistories: Both have their Presbyteries and Classical Meetings: Both their Meetings are accountable to Synods, with this difference, that in the One Synod the Bishop presides, but in the Other sometimes there is a changeable, and sometimes a settled Moderator in the Chair. So that the distinction of Churchman and Presbyterian is barely Nominal and impotent in this Country; and, in the Judgment of unprejudiced People, a very little Charity might unite 'em.

E

and

Their further Agreement in Christenings, Marriages, Burials, and the like, is obvious to every Foreigner, and are administered in the following manner.

Baptism.

1. Baptism is mostly done in the Church, and on the Lord's Day. When (after Sermon) the Minister discourses on the Institution, Necessity, and Benefits of that Sacrament; then he prays for a Blessing on the present Action, and beseeches God that the Baptizing of the Child (or Children) may answer the Ends for which the Ordinance was made and continued among 'em. After which some Questions are proposed to the Father (for he presents the

the Child, and holds it in his Arms, concerning the Creed, and the Care he is to take for the Education of the Infant, to make his Behaviour suitable to it, and the honourable Character which Baptism confers on him. To all which the Father giving the Minister affirmative Answers, the Minister prays the second time, that God would be pleased to continue the Parents in this Belief and good Resolution, and dispose the Child to be govern'd, and guided by him. Then with Water out of a Bason conveniently fasten'd to the Pulpit-side, the Minister sprinkles the Child in the Name of Father, Son, and Holy Ghost—and so, a very few Words more added, dismisses 'em with the usual Blessing. The same Method is used at home in Private Baptism, but without a Sermon.

2. The Eucharist, or Lord's Supper, is Eucharist: rarely administred (perhaps once or twice a-year) and with great Caution. It is given the Congregation Sitting after the Example of the Apostles eating the old Passover, who did it in a Gesture like our sitting at Table; but whether the same Gesture was kept after the Paschal Supper, is more than any body knows.

For as the Text takes no notice of another Gesture, so neither does it infer the continuance of this, but by its silence leaves it to the Churches Direction and Piety, to propose such a Gesture as best expresses the sense we have of, and the value we put upon so great a Mercy.

Marriages.

3. Marriages are openly solemnized in the Church, and indifferently on any day of the Week. Only Care is taken that the Banns be asked three several Sundays before, to notify to the Parishioners the Design of such a Couple, and to give opportunity for any to object what they can against 'em. Being come to the Church and the Man and Woman standing before the Pulpit, apart from the rest of the Company, the Minister offers a short Discourse about the Nature and Reasons of Matrimony, such as the Directory and our Liturgy mention, That namely 'twas ordained, 1. For the obtaining of Children to be brought up in the Fear of God. 2. To avoid Fornication; and 3. For the mutual Comfort of one another under the Difficulties of Life. Then he demands of Both Parties, whether they were willing to enter into that State with full resolution to do the respective Duties

Duties of Husband and Wife? Wherein answering to his Satisfaction, he directs 'em to join hands, without using the Ring, and thereupon pronounces 'em Man and Wife. And so in a short Harangue setting their Duty before 'em, and exhorting 'em to a conscientious regard of it, he at length blesses them, and the rest of the Company, who with the young People hasten home.

There is a Custom in some Places, where the Bride at the time of Marriage goes bare-head to the Church, and so continues all that day, but is covered ever after. I asked the Reason of this, but none was given me, saving that of Custom. However, as to my self, I consider'd it as an Emblem or Instance the Women use, to signifie that Liberty wherewith they come to their Husbands, but which they lose upon the Day of Marriage; and therefore from that Day forward they put on the Plad, or other Covering, to intimate that Loss, and shew their Subjection to their Husbands for the time to come. And that this Covering is a Note of Subjection in Women, is plain from St. Paul, 1 Cor. 15. and the Consent of several Writers who comment on that Place; and so the uncovering may be probably at Weddings.

A Custom

understood as a Token of Liberty, which these Women would express by that ancient Custom. We may add, That they have their Heads not only bare that day, but the Hair likewise is very artificially plaited. And this, peradventure, refers to that Practice St. Peter speaks of, 1 Pet. 3. 3. where he advises his Women to leave it off, as unbecoming the Modesty of the Christian Religion. Our Liturg, at the end of the Marriage-Office, borrows the Advice from that Apostle, in its Exhortation to the Young Couple, and wishes the Wife to forbear that outward adorning of plaiting the Hair, &c. and to dress her self as to signify her Subjection to her Husband. So that this Custom sets before us the Fooleries and Vanities young Women are apt to be guilty of, both before and at the Marriage-day, but bid them adieu for the future, and put on a Veil or Cover, not only as a Mark of Subjection, but to denote their future neglect of the Hair, which they so much prided in, and spent no little time to adorn and plait it.

Burials.

Burials are made without a Minister, whom they will have so far from Pope, concerning the Dead, that he must not be concern'd in interring the Corps, and is seldom seen at their most Solemn Funerals. As soon as the Party is dead, notice of it is given by the Sound of an Hand-Bell, and a Crier, who at the most convenient Places of the Town proclaims it after this manner: Faithful Brethren and Sisters, I let you to woe, that there is a Faithful Brother (or Sister) departed, as it hath pleased Almighty God. He (or She) was called -- [so names him] and lived in -- [so gives his Dwelling.] (ol about named)

A Day or Two after, in a way of Invitation; the same Man goes about the second time, and notifies the Hour and House where the Neighbours may assemble to attend the Deceased to the Place of Burial. There they accordingly meet; and the Coffin being covered with a large Black Cloth, or Velvet-Pall, sprinkled with Herbs and Flowers, the Body is carried in this Order. First, divers Ranks of Men walk before it; Then comes the Dead Party carried, not on the Shoulders, but by Three Poles (like those our Chair-men use) with Three Men on each side the Coffin or Bier, to support and convey it along. After the Corps follows a greater number of Men than what was in the Front, but in Rows or Files, as before, without any confusion at all. And in the Rere, a promiscuous company of Women, who as they go without distinction of Quality, so do they go without any Order. Being arrived at the Grave, they put in the dead Corps with little Ceremony, and then the Company immediately return home, variously affected according to the Impressions such an Object is apt to make on the Minds of People.

They commonly lay their Dead in the Church-Yards, looking on the Church (as in truth it is) more proper for the Living than Them. Sometimes however they do bury in the Church, but then the Ground is valued at a great rate, to deter the Vulgar from expecting the like Favour. Yet it was our Lot to bury an English Officer in the Church of Dalkeith, and 'twas done by the *Liturg*y; which being delivered by heart, so well satisfied many of the Scotch of that Town, that they could not forbear calling it a Christian Burial, and said that theirs was like the Burial of a Dog, in comparison of the Other.

This is as much as I can remember of the Nature of Scotland, and the Constitution of the Church in that Kingdom; which tho' an Account very imperfect, was such as a Traveller in Time of War could attain to, and therefore the Reader will candidly treat it. And, perhaps, having called my self so, it may be expected I should say something of the Particular Cities and Towns we had occasion to pass through, and may deserve our notice; which I shall not think much of my Pains to do, if it may make some amends for the Omissions before.

But before I enter on this, 'twill be a necessary Preface to observe the distinction the Scotch make between their Towns, some whereof they call Royal Boroughs, and others Boroughs of Royalties; a distinction formerly of greater use than it is at this day.

A distinction between the Towns in Scotland.

Their Royal Boroughs had great Privileges peculiar to 'em, as sending Members to Parliament, exporting and importing several Commodities, which the Country and Boroughs of Royalties could not have but from them. But when Duke Lauderdale was High Commissioner, That he might ingratiate himself with the Nobility and Gentry, the Privileges of Royal Boroughs were communicated to the Boroughs of Royalties, so that now they are made as capable of Trading as any of the Others; and and are moreover exempted out of the Jurisdiction and Power of the Sheriff, who had before a great influence over 'em. Hereby the Lords, or Owners of such Towns are much aggrandized, and their Interest enlarged by this Act of the Duke.

Of Edinburgh.

Edinburgh.

E Edinburgh is in Lothien; and it was first called Ageda from a Rapture or broken Rock, meaning the Place where the Castle was built from which the Town took its Name. The Northern Scotch term'd it Duned, from whence probably the Latines had their Edinam and Edinodunum. But the Moderns say Edinburgh, or the City near the Winged Castle, because the Castle which was built before the Town, stands between two eminent Rocks, like two Wings, one whereof is called [Arthuri Sedes] Arthur's Stool, and is a steep Rock on the South of the Castle. It is now the Royal City, having the King's Palace, the Courts of Justice, and the Parliament-House, which was before the Reign of K. James the 5th. held indifferently at Perth, Sterling, or Forfar.

It

It is of on a Mi Hou or C
and, Edin
self,
the
of C Stre
Scot ther
the tha
the De
com Ind and me asi
Ne W an ran Bu
a C we
It

It is seated on an Hill, and consists chiefly of one Fair Street from West to East, about a Mile long from the Castle to Hali-rood-House: But then we include Cani-Gate, or Canon-Gate, tho a distinct Corporation; and, in strictness, is rather the Saburbs of Edinburgh, than any Part of the City it self, like London and Westminster, and has the Name of Cani-Gate, from a Society of Canons who formerly dwelt in it. The Street is wide and well paved, and the Scotchman is apt to say that it is like another as Cheapside: It swells in the middle, the Kennels being made on each side, so that 'tis commonly very clean, and is thereupon their Parade, tho' the natural Descent, and its Situation on an Hill contributes more to keep it so, than any Industry or Care of the People.

Their Old Houses are cased with Boards, and have Oval Windows (without Casements or Glass) which they open or shut as it stands with their Conveniency. Their New Houses are made of Stone, with good Windows modishly framed and Glazed, and so lofty, that Five or Six Stories is an ordinary height, and one Row of Buildings there is near the Parliament-Close, with no less than Fourteen. The reason of it is, their Scantness of room, which which not allowing ^{em} large Foundations, they are forced to make it up in the Superstructure, to entertain Comers, who are very desirous to be in, or as near as they can to the City.

Most of the Houses, as they are parted into divers Tenements, so they have as many Landlords as Stories; and therefore have no dependance on one another, otherwise than as they stand on the same Foundation, so that in this respect they may be compared to our Students Apartments at the Inns-of-Court, which are bought and sold without regard to the Chambers above or below ^{em}.

Their Stairs.

Their Stairs are unsightly and inconvenient: For being built out of the Street for the Service of every Story, they are sometimes so steepy, narrow, and fenceless, that it requires Care to go up and down for fear of falling. But in their New Houses the Contrivance is better; and the Stair-Case being made within the Yard, or Foundation of the Building, the Ascent and Descent is more decent and easie, and rids the Street of an Incumbrance, which cannot be avoided in the other Houses.

On the South-side of Edinburgh, was heretofore a Lough or Lake, but is now drained drained, and a narrow Street built upon it which they call Cow-Gate. Between which and the High-Street there are many little Lanes of Communication, but very steepy and troublesome, and withal so nasty (for want of Bog-Houses, which they very rarely have) that Edinburgh is by some liken'd to an Ivory Comb, whose Teeth on both sides are very foul, though the space between 'em is clean and slightly.

The City is Govern'd by a Lord Provost and Four Bailiffs, who with the assistance of some substantial Citizens, in the nature of our Common-Council, manage all Publick Affairs relating to the Benefit of the Corporation or Peace of the City. Its Magistrates.

The Pride of Edinburgh is the Parliament-Yard, or Clofe as they call it. In the midst whereof is the Effigies of King Charles II. on Horse-back, a well proportion'd Figure of Stone, and natural enough. The Yard is square and well paved, Beautified with good Buildings round about it; and the only fault is, that it is no bigger, the height of the Houses bearing no correspondence to the dimensions of the Area. Its Western boundary is the Parliament-House, a large Room and The Parliament-Clofe.

and high Roofed. Over the Entrance is the Scotch Arms, with Mercy and Truth on each side, like Two Supporters, and this Inscription — Stant hic Felicia Regna — These Vertues make Kingdoms happy. Under the Arms was, Unio Unio num, The Union of Unions — Meaning not only the Union of the two Kingdoms, but that to the Uniting of Kingdoms Good Advice is necessary, which is the business of that Place. Within the Room on the South of it, is an high Throne, and on each side several Benches; one above another, the uppermost whereof is level with the Throne, and the lowest reaches the Pit, well furnished with Forms, for the conveniency and ease of the Members. Opposite to the Throne, and without the Area, is a Pulpit, for Sermons in Sessions of Parliament, upon Special Occasions. Behind the Pulpit is a large Partition, where Strangers stand and hear the Sermon; and sometimes the Debates of the House, which to my thoughts were not managed with Gravity enough, but was next door to Wrangling.

East of this House, but South of the Square is the Privy-Council-Chamber. And not far from it, the Royal-Exchange, made up of a Double Row of Shops, very small, and and meanly furnished. There is also another Exchange, inferior to this, but both above Stairs, and without any piece of Magnificence to distinguish them from the other Buildings.

In the first Floors level with the Yard, are three or four Book-sellers, and as many Gold-smiths, whose Shops are sufficiently stockt, to let us see their Occupations and Trades.

The Northern Boundary is the Wall of the High-Church, which with a few Shops joining to it (leaving room for Coaches to pass to the Parliament-House) concludes the Figure of this Close, the Beauty of their City.

On the West of the High-street and a Musket-shot distance from the Houses, The Castle. stands the Castle built near 2020 Years ago, Castrum alatum (said Ptolemy,) the Maiden-Castle (say the Scotch) because the Pictish Kings kept and educated their Daughters in it. On the West, South and North it is a Rock very steepy, yet not inaccessible (as they called it) for upon the Bombarding of it 'twas so batter'd, that with the fall of the Walls and some other Rubbish, it was brought to that pass, that the Soldiers with little difficulty might have clamber'd up, but that it was timely

timely surrender'd. On the East towards the Town, 'tis guarded with an Half-Moon, and has on its Battlements eight pieces of Cannon, with a wide Trench, and Draw-bridge, and then a thick Wall lined with Guns for its better Security from the Assaults of that Quarter. The Castle is certainly a strong Building, both from Art and Nature, well stored with Ordinance and other Conveniencies to bear a Siege, provided it be well Man'd, as it was not when the Duke of Gourdon deliver'd it up. There is a Little Room in the Castle, where they say King James VI. was born, and thence in a little time removed to Sterling, which occasions some Authors to assert that he was born at Sterling. Whereas the Verses writ over the Chimney-piece in that Chamber, which they there apply to him, otherwise give out in this Language and Spelling.

*Lord Jesus Chryse that Crown it was with Thorn,
Preserve the Birth quhais badgie heir is born,
And send her Sons Succession to raign still,
Lang in this Realme, if it be thy will.*

Al's

Al's grant, O Lord, quhatever of her proceed

Be to thy Glory, Honour and Praise, so be id.

July 19. 1566.

South of the Castle, and not far distant from it, we have the beautiful Front of a large Hospital, built by one Harriot, a Goldsmith, for the Education of 40 Boys, who, if they take Learning, and go to the College, have an Exhibition, each of 7l. Sterling, or thereabouts; if put to Trades, about 200 Marks, or about 11 l. Sterling, for the incouragement of their Masters.

South of Cow-Gate, and on a Rising stands the College, consisting of one small Quadrangle, and some other Lodgings without Uniformity or Order, built at several times, and by divers Benefactors, who thought probably to be better distinguish'd by this variety of Forms and Situations in those Buildings. In the midst hereof is the Library, a large and convenient Room made about 60 Years ago for that purpose. The Roof is covered with Lead, and is neatly kept within; well furnish'd with Books, and those put in very good Order, and Cloister'd with Doors made of W^{ire} which none can open but the Keeper, and which is thought a better way than our multitudes of Chains incumbering a Library, and are equally troublesome and chargeable to us. It has (as all other Publick Libraries) many Benefactors, whose Books are distinguish'd by their several Apartments, and the Donors Names set over 'em in Golden Letters. A Device grateful and honourable enough for the Parties concern'd, encourages others to follow their Examples; such especially who may be charmed to the doing of a Good Work, tho' not always upon a Principle of Goodness. Over the Books are hung the Pictures of divers Princes, and most of the Reformers, as Luther, Melancthon, Zuinglius, Calvin, &c. and near them Buchanan's Scull, very intire, and so thin that we may see the Light through it. And that it is really his, appears from hence, because one Mr. Adamson, Principal of the College, being a young Man of 24 Years of Age when Buchanan was buried, either out of Curiosity or Respect to the Dead, brib'd the Sexton some time after to procure him the Skull, which being brought, he fastened these Verses to it, and at his Death left it and them to the College.

De Cespitio

Georgii Buchanani tumulo in Cæmeterio Edinensi multorum

Aliorum marmoreis monumentis

Affabre extractis septo & circumdato.

Marmoreæ cur stant ex omni parte columnæ

Signaq; ab artificum dædala facta manu?

Et spectent oculis monumenta insignia vivi

Per quæ defunctis concilietur honos.

Floriolas vivus qui contemnebat honores,

An cupiet Divus se decorent lapides?

Ubi fas pulchro nomen debere sepulchro,

Qui nil quo melius nobilitentur, habent.

Te olim Tellus est nobilitata Britanna,

Et decus es tumulo jam, Buchanane, tuo.

Here I had also the Copy of a Serpen-ne or double-fac'd Letter written in rench by Cardinal Richlieu to the French mbassador at Rome, concerning a Bene-tine Friar.

In English thus.

MASTER Cammy, a SAVOYARD Friar of the Order of St. BENNET is to be a BEARER to you of NEWS from me by Means of this Letter. He is one of the most DISCREET, WISE, and Lively Persons, that I ever yet among all I have CONVERST with knew, and has earnestly desired me to write to you in his FAVOUR to give him a LETTER of CREDENCE with some prefix Recommendation, which I granted to his MERIT I assure you, rather than Importunity. For, believe me, Sir, He deserves infinitely your Esteem, and I would be sorry, you should be wanting to oblige him by your being mistaken in not KNOWING him, I should be afflicted if you were as many OTHERS have been, on that Account who now esteem him who are of my best FRIENDS. Hence and from no other MOTIVE it is, That I desire to advertise you that you are obliged more than to take special NOTICE of him, to afford him all imaginable Respect and say NOTHING in his Presence that may OFFEND or DISPLEASE in any SORT. For I may and do truly say I love him as my self, and assure you, there cannot be a more Convincing ARGUMENT of an Unworthy PERSON in the World, than to be capable of doing him injury. I KNOW that as soon as you cease to be a Stranger to his Vertues, you shall be ACQUAINTED with him, you will LOVE him as well as I, and will thank me for this ADVICE. The assurance I have of your great CIVILITY doth hinder me to write further of him to you, or say more upon this Subject.

I am Sir,

Paris 23d. Novemb. 1638.
For the Ambassador of France at Rome.

Your Affectionate Friend,
John Armand de Fleſſus, Cardinal of Richlieu.

This Letter is to be read as the Friar understood it in the two Columns together; but as the Cardinal meant it, you are to read the first Column only.

The Bohemian Protest against the Council of Constance, concerning the burning of Huss and Prague, (1417.) is here shown. The Original, with the Seal of the Princes of Bohemia and Moravia, and of Prague.

and others to the number of 105, brought from the Library at Dantzick, and procured in this manner.

A Scotch Gentleman Travelling into those Parts; and having got a sight of that Instrument, his Curiosity led him, not only to read, but to desire liberty to take a Copy of it; which with some difficulty was obtain'd, and by the Charm of a handsome Gratuity, leave given by the Under-Library-Keeper to carry it to his Lodging. But before it could be transcrib'd, the Lender fell sick and past Recovery, which the Gentleman hearing, at last, when the Work was over, he goes to the Keeper with design to restore the Original, and so asks him in Latin what he should do with it? He answering in two words, habeat Dominus; the Gentleman understood 'em, as if he had bid him keep it as being now in his Possession, whereas doubtless the Man intended the Governor of the College, or the Head Library-Keeper, whom, in trust, it did belong to. The Party dying, the Gentleman brought it away to Amsterdam, and thence was Purchased for the College at Edinburgh.

There was also an Old Greek Manuscript of the Four Evangelists, and brought from the Library of Alexandria, an ancient Character. And a Latin Discourse in large Quarto, in the Defence of Princes, by one Craig, a learned Advocate of Scotland, and wrote in Answer to Dolman.

The Cap to graduate Students.

The Cap, wherewith they Graduate their Scholars, is Round, and made of Velvet, like the Physicians Cap with us. This they put on the Head of the promoted Party, and thereby signifie his being called to be Master; referring, as is thought, to the usage of the Old Romans (ad pileum vocare) who by this Ceremony made their Servants Free, and put on a Cap, as the Token of future Liberty.

Under the Library is the Printing-House with the same Dimensions of the Room above. Their main Work was, printing small letter'd Bibles, and it is a Work mostly employs 'em.

At the farther end of the Library we enter on a Stair-Case, at the Foot of which over the Door are these Greek Words $\Delta\iota\pi\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\nu\ \delta\epsilon\tilde{\omega}\sigma\alpha\nu\ \sigma\iota\ \mu\acute{\alpha}\theta\omicron\nu\tau\epsilon\varsigma\ \gamma\epsilon\delta\mu\mu\alpha\iota\alpha$ — The Learned see two ways — Meaning that they have a double advantage, the Light of Nature and Education, by which means they add to their own Experience the Experience of former Ages, conveyed to us by writing. Over another, being an entrance into one of their Schools, is written,

us

Virtus Rectorem ducemq; desiderat, Vitia sine Magistro discantur. 1616.

Vertue requires Governors and Guides,
Vices are learnt without a Master —

Shewing with what difficulty and pains Nature is corrected and refined by the Disciplines of Vertue; whereas of our selves we are too inclinable to all manner of Debauchery and Vice.

The Stair-Case before-mentioned, leads us up to a large Room, formerly their Library, but is now used for a Commencement-Chamber, and is the Common Hall for all College Entertainment, and Business of moment. Here were several Maps, Globes, and some Books, with a few Rarities, as a Palm leaf two yards and a half long; a Speaking-Trumpet made of Copper, about three yards in length; a Sea-Horse Pissle two yards; an American Shell which the Natives make their Trumpet; a crooked Horn divers inches long, cut out of a Womans Head above the right Ear, when she was 50 Years old, and lived 12 Years after.

The Commencement-Chamber.

The College was built about 1581. and passes for an University, but is not really so. Yet a Petition was made to King James VI. to that purpose, who thereupon promised it should be done, but was not, tho' the Instruments are ready for the Royal Allowance; and, as the Principal told me, wants only Peace and Quietness to perfect the Design.

The first cause of building this College, was the Legacy of one Mr. Clement Little a Commissary, who bequeathed his valuable Study to Edinburgh and the Kirk of God, 1580. Whereupon the Citizens were obliged to build a convenient place for 'em, and accordingly did so the Year following. After which Additions were made from time to time, till the whole came to the bulk we now see it in. Among the rest is a Chappel use by the French Protestants in and about the City, and a spacious Garden for the Professors in Common, to walk and divert themselves in the Evening.

There are in the College a Principal and Eight Professors.

1. A Divinity Professor.
2. A Professor of the Eastern Languages.
3. A

3. A Professor of the Mathematicks.
4. Four Professors of Philosophy.
5. A Professor of Philology or Humanities, who teaches Classick Authors, and is a kind of School-Master to prepare Youth for a more solid Learning.

What the Principal's Income is, as Principal, I know not, but as a Divinity ^{Their In-} Professor, which he always is, his Stipend come. is 100 l. per Annum Sterling. The Mathematick Salary is 1000 l. Scotch, near 80 l. in English Money. The Language Professor has 1000 Marks Scotch, or about 8 l. with us. The Philosophy Professors 400 Marks each of Scotch Coin, or 16 l. 13 s. 4 d. But they help it by their Pupils, and raise it to a good Subsistence. There are also 50 Bursers more like our Exhibitioners than Scholars of Houses: These have 10 l. per Annum each towards their Maintenance, yet are not forced to College Attendance except in Term time, when they and the other Students meet together. These Students are divided into four Classes, as at Glasgow.

In the first Class was taught Greek.

In the second Logick.

In the third Ethicks. Physicks, and some Mathematicks, and then they had the Degree of Batchelor of Arts.

In

In the fourth Geometry and Geography, and then they Commence Masters, the highest Degree of that College.

Their Term.

They have but One Term in the Year, beginning October the 10th. and ending July the 12th. which is the time of their Act or Commencement. So that their Vacation being short, and the Term continued so many Months (all which while the Professors are very diligent) they make some amends for the Years wanting in our Account, to make up the Stated Terms for Receiving Degrees. And so much for the College of Edinburg; which, as an University, has the Lord Provost of the City for its Chancellour, and the Principal his Vice-Chancellour to Govern it and dispatch Business.

Hali-Rood House.

The East End of the Great Street of Edinburgh brings you to the Royal Palace, formerly an Abbey, but converted into this use by King James V. yet it still retains its old Name, and is sometimes called the Abbey, and Hali-Rood House. It is a Noble Structure, built of Stone, well Carved and Beautified, in the fashion of a Square, with a Piazza or Gallery under it, from whence by several Stair-Cases they ascend to such Apartments as their Respect or Business engage 'em. The Ga-

lery

lery above is very fine, extended to a considerable length, and set out with the Pictures of their 112 Kings, and hath also a Billyard-Table for the Diversion of the House. The Lodgings are Stately enough, and not meanly furnished. The House is guarded from surprize by a large Court where the Souldiers draw up when they relieve one another.

Adjoining to the Palace is the Shell of the Old Abbey, and by it the Common Yard for Burials, which is ill Situated on the account of the King's House, but very convenient for the Ease and Health of the Citizens who have no vacant ground within the Walls for such an use, and who thereby lose the ill scents which must needs attend such Places.

On the North of the City in a Bottom, is the Physick-Garden with 2700 sorts of Plants, as the Keeper of it told me. But then this variety of Plants is all its Beauty, having no Walks, and but little Wall-ing or good Hedges to recommend it; and is (to my thinking) the rudest piece of Ground I ever saw with that Name. The Manager of it, I suppose, guest at my thoughts, and told me, that he was taking a much more convenient Field a little farther off, which he design'd to Fence

The Physick-Garden.

Fence with a large Brick Wall, and removing his Plants thither, digest 'em into such a Method as might make it a Pleasant as well as Useful Garden. He has for his incouragement a small Sallary allowed by the Apothecaries of the Town, which he adds to by the sale of such Goods.

The Churches. Before we leave Edinburg, we ought to number their Churches. They are Seven, 1. The High-Church, divided into Three Parts, the Old, the New, and the Tolbooth-Church. 2. The Trone-Church. 3. The Friary. 4. The Abbey. 5. The College-Church. 6. The West Church. 7. The Lady Esther's Church, which with the Castle Chappel are all the Churches they have; and of these some are not used, and the rest thin, excepting the Trone and High-Church.

Here is no Cathedral; and tho' there be a Chapter when there is a Bishop, yet the Prebendaries are little more than nominal, the Stipends being deduced out of the Bishops Revenue, which being not great in it self, very ill affords those Defalcations. And tho' the Prebendaries demand not above 8 or 10 l. yearly each of 'em, yet are seldom paid, and thereupon sometimes murmur: But the reason of that neglect I take to be this; That because these

these Prebends are not given by the King, or Bishops, but are Appendages to the Neighbouring Benefices and follow the Presentation to such Living, therefore the Bishop thinks he is not bound to take that notice of 'em, as he might otherwise do, were they Creatures of his own: And so much for Edinburg.

A Mile from Edinburg is Leith, a Mart Leith. Town, at the Mouth of the Fryth, having a fine Piere stretching it self a great way into the Sea, and serves for the safety of the Vessels, and the pleasure of those who walk on it. It may be called the Ware-house of Edinburgh, to supply the Merchants and other Citizens. It was formerly a great check to Edinburg when King James VI. was there, who often threaten'd 'em to remove his Palace and Courts of Judicature thither, to keep the Citizens in better Obedience. It is a thriving Town, having a double advantage, the Sea-Trade and the Citizens Recreation to enrich it; for thither they flock by foot or in Coaches to divert themselves, having no Play-House, Musick-Meetings, or Spring-Garden to tempt them to those superfluous Expences.

The Second City of Scotland is Perth, or Perth. St. John's-Town, because St. John is its Tutelar

Tutelar Saint or Guardian. It stands on the Bank of the River Tay; and not being above 20 Miles from the Sea, is every day saluted with the Tide which brings up Vessels thither. There are Two long, spacious Streets, besides others of less moment for Intercourse, which being well paved are at all times tolerably clean. The Houses are not stately; but, after the Scotch-way, make a good appearance. The most remarkable Building is That, where the Gonvies had like to have murder'd James VI. to revenge their Father's Death executed in the King's Minority. But the Person hired to dispatch him at that instant refusing, and one of the Gonvies not being able of himself to do it before Succours came in, the King escaped at that time, and returned safe to Sterling.

Here are only two Churches; but one of 'em so big, that it looks more like a Cathedral than Parish-Church, kept in good Repair, and decent within.

The Trade of the Town depends chiefly on Linen, which the High-Landers bring thither, and which they export to the Value of 40000 l. Sterling per Annum. It was in former Days the Seat of divers Parliaments, is a County-Town govern'd by a Lord-Provost and Bailiffs, has the Stile

Stile of Royal Borough, with the Honours and Privileges of the most eminent Places of Scotland; and the Inhabitants speak very big whenever they have occasion to mention the City, as we may see in the Instrument of Burgess-ship, given us, and which is a Civility and Honour they confer on Strangers —

Perthi sexto die Mensis Septembris
Anno Partus Salutaris. 1689.

QUO Die Magistratum illustris Ordo & honorandus Senatorum Cætus inclytæ Civitatis Perthensis, in debiti amoris & observantia tesseram --- N --- Immunitatibus præfatæ Civitatis, Societatis etiam ac fraternitatis ædilitiæ privilegiis, solenni interveniente Sacramento de omnibus à Cive necessario exigendis ac præstandis donarunt, possessione inaugurali ab honorabili Viro Roberto Smith Urbis Præfecto habita. Ex Fori judicialis Perthi codicibus extractam per me, Ja. Oliphant, Cl.

From hence marched Major-General Mackay against my Lord Dundee at the Blair of Athol. Which being an Action that that has made no little Noise, and whereon in a great measure depended the Fortune of Scotland at that time, a Brief Relation of it may not be nauseous and unacceptable to the Reader; and if so, the Digression will be received with Candour. Thus then it was.

An Account of the Battel at Gilliecranky.

Major-General Mackay being at Perth, and having notice that my Lord Dundee, with his Army, was in and about Blair-Castle, order'd Six Battalions of Foot; viz. Mackay's own Regiment, Lord Levintz's, Lord Kilmure's, Col. Ramsay's, Col. Balfour's, and Col. Hastings, with Two Troops of Scotch Horse to march thither. Accordingly they set out the next Morning; but to secure a narrow Pass about two Miles long, and not far from Blair-Castle, there was an Advance-Guard of 400 sent before to make good that Pass, the main Body at a convenient distance following after. This gain'd, and the whole Army got to Gilliecranky, Dundee sends 'em notice to prepare for Battel. Upon which warning, our Forces drew up, and put themselves into the best condition they could in a Field (with a River on the one side, and a Mountain on the other) to receive the Enemy, who by and by appear'd in great numbers, and in a manner so frightful, that after a few Discharges of Muskets, Mackay's Regiments began to break, and immediately with the two Troops of Horse ran away. Only the English Battalion stood its ground; and tho' shock'd a little at first by the common disorder, yet rallied, and recovered themselves with about 150 of the Veterane Scotch Soldiers, who had been in Service abroad, and remember'd the ill Consequence of such a Flight as would expose 'em to the Swords of Pursuers nimbler than themselves. These resolved to expect the worse; and their Courage, with the Favour of the Night approaching, was the means to preserve 'em. For upon the Defeat, the Highlanders immediately ran to the Baggage, and left the sturdy English, who in the Night withdrew themselves silently, and by the next Morning were out of the reach of Danger.

ner

Here my Lord Dundee was slain, and the manner of his Death is thus reported, That upon the Flight of the King's Army, finding the English to rally, he gave Signs to his Regiments to march up closer, in order to force our Men into the River behind 'em; and to be seen the more, rais'd himself on the Saddle, and Lord Dundee slain.

G

by

by that means became a better Mark for him that shot him. Sensible of the Wound He retired, and in a little while died, was carried to the Castle, and buried in a Chapel joining to it. This did not a little contribute to the Safety of Col. Hastings's Regiment; for now the High-Landers being left without a General, they observed no Order, but ran to the Plunder, and it was to them a Prize more valuable than the Victory. But tho' we were thus defeated, Dundee's Death was more than Victory, because, upon this, the War was in effect at an end; for altho' Dundee had many potent Friends who waited for his Descent into the Low-Lands, yet the News of his Death put a damp upon 'em; and there being no Man of that Party in the Kingdom qualified to succeed him, they all dispersed: And Col. Canon with his Irish Succours, retiring to the Isle of Mull, a few Weeks determined that Matter.

And here, before I proceed, give me leave to say somewhat of the Two Chief Commanders at this time, my Lord Dundee, and Major-General Massey, who after the Revolution order'd the Forces of that Kingdom, as the other did before it.

Dundee

Dundee was by Name Graham, and by Title Clavers, educated at St. Andrews; where in his Minority he was admired for his Parts and Respects to Church-men, which made him dear to the Arch-Bishop of that See, who ever after honour'd and lov'd him. Grown to Maturity he goes to Holland, where he was in the Service of the Prince of Orange, but continued in it not very long upon some Disgust there given him. At his Return however the Prince gave him a Letter of Recommendation, directed to the Duke of York, with a Request to provide for him; which accordingly the Duke did, by interceding with his Brother King Charles the Second, for an Horse-Captain's Commission in Scotland, where Forces were then raising: And 'twas a particular Testimony of the King's Favour; for tho' he allowed Duke Lauderdale to dispose of the other Commissions as he thought good, yet he excepted Mr. Graham's, and 'twas the only Exception on that Occasion. He behaved himself so well in this Post, that afterwards some scatter'd and independent Troops being formed into a Regiment, Capt. Graham was made their Colonel, and in Progress of time Major-General of all the Scotch Forces, with which Character

An Account of Lord Durr.
dec.

he came into England at the Landing of the Prince 1688. Being found very capable to serve the Crown, he was admitted into the Privy Council, who enlarged his Commission, and gave him Power to reduce the West, and make the Dissenters comply with the Constitution of the Church as it then was; which he happily compassed by many Struggles, and by laying great Fines on 'em, but seldom exacting 'em with Rigour. By King James the 7th. he was made Viscount of Dundee, his Seat being near that Borough. And, upon the News of the Prince's Coming, he was order'd to march with his Regiment into England; where he was like to have commanded as Eldest Major-General, but that the English Officers with the same Commissions would not bear it. He advised K. James to three Things, One to fight the Prince of Orange, Another to go personally to the Prince, and demand his Business, The Last to make his way into Scotland upon the Coldness he observed in the English Army and Nation. This Advice the King was inclined to take, but that the News of some Scotch Peers and Gentlemen's hast'ning to London, dishearten'd him, who were suspected to favour the Prince's Design. On

the
to th in de could this l Conve burgh at th Desig
comp king
ing; little solve ving the L King would made with mies a Vot son, a appea excuse own I his La in form
When
ders l

the King's departure, he apply'd himself to the Prince, with whom he was too free in declaring his Thoughts, and therefore could expect no kind Reception. Upon this he retired; and hearing of the Scotch Convention, he began his Journey to Edinburgh to be present at it. A while he sat at this Convention, but discovering a Design in hand to assassinate him, he first complain'd; and the Complaint not taking effect, he absented from that Meeting; and, at last, with 40 Horse (which a little before he commanded, and were resolved to run his Fortune) rid home, having had first some Communication with the Duke of Gourdon, who in behalf of King James commanded the Castle, and would not deliver it up for any Proposals made by the Convention. This treating with the Duke of Gourdon gave his Enemies advantage, who thereupon obtain'd a Vote to make him an intercommon'd Person, and sent an Officer to require him to appear before 'em at Edinburgh. But he excused himself by two Reasons; 1st. His own Danger; 2dly, The Indisposition of his Lady, who then lay in, and was also in some danger on the Account of Labour. Whereupon the Convention proceeds, orders him to be apprehended, and by that means forces him, with his little Guard into the Mountains; where the Highlanders flock'd to him in such numbers, that at last they became a formidable Army: With these he came to Gillie-cranky; and had he not been there killed, he had been at Edinburgh a few days after.

His Character.

He was a Gentleman fix'd in his Religion, so that King James could not charm him into any dislike of it; but the more he found it opposed, the more he loved it. He was a great Admirer of the Church-of-England-Worship; and often wish'd Scotland so happy, that where God is served, the Service might be done in some visible Instances of Reverence, such as are Order and Decency. He was of deep Thought and indefatigable Industry, ready to execute what he design'd, and quick in the Contrivance as well as Execution of it. He was a Man of Bravery and Courage, and therefore led up all his Regiments, which indeed were unwilling to advance without him; yet us'd the Care of a General to expose himself no farther than necessity requires, as being the Guide and Head of his Army. And because he was forced to appear often at the Head of each Regiment to advise and inspirit 'em, just before the Battel he put on on a Sad-colour'd Coat over his Armour, tho' he appear'd in Red all the Morning before. He seem'd to have no base Ends in resisting the Present Government, but (as he said) for Conscience and Loyalty-sake. And by virtue of this Principle it was, that when he surprized Perth, he suffered not the least Violence or Damage to be done the Town; and finding 500*l.* in the Collector of the Revenues Room, besides what belong'd to the King, he did not touch it, but said, he intended to rob no Man; tho' what was the Crowns, he thought he might make bold with, seeing what he was then doing was purely to serve his Master. He was so great a Patron to the Clergy, that they could hardly mention him without a Tear. His death he took with Patience, and had at it a sufficient Confidence of the Divine Favour. For when his Favourite Pitcor ask'd him how he did? and told him withal how things went, and that all was well if he were so. Then I am well, said he, and so immediately died. What they thought of him in Scotland is partly seen by several Copies of Verses upon his Death. This was one of 'em:

*Ultime Scotorum, potuit, quo sospite solo
 Libertas Patria salva fuisset tua.
 Te moriente novas accepit Scotia cives, Accepitq; novos, Te moriente, Deos.
 Illa nequit, superesse Tibi, Tu non potes illi, Ergo Caledonia Nomen inane vale.
 Tuq; vale, Gentis prisca fortissime Ductor, Ultime Scotorum, ac ultime Grame, vale.*

*Fergus last Son, had'st Thou alone but lived,
 Our Liberty and our Country had survived.
 But, Oh! Thou'rt gone, and Scotland finds this odds,
 A King that's new, new Subjects, and new Gods.
 In Thee we liv'd, in Thee we dy'd together,
 Scotland's vain Name, adieu, adieu, forever.
 And fare Thou well, brave Prop of our old State,
 Last Scot, Last Graham, and Last of all was great.*

An Account of Macay.

MACAY was an High-Lander, tho' Commander in chief against 'em. Arrived at Manhood, he sails for Holland to make his Fortune; where, gradually rising, he was at last made a Colonel, and with that Commission returns into Scotland, land, when the three Regiments were recalled upon Argyle's Attempt in that Kingdom. But Col. Douglafs being a Brigadier at that time, and some Feuds depending between the two Families of Melfort and Douglafs, Melfort (who by Religion and Zeal for the Popish Interest had the Ascendant over King James) to spight the other Family, obtains a Commission from the King to make Col. Mackay a Major-General, that so he might command Brigadier Douglas, who was certainly the better Officer as well as the better Gentleman. And this is the reason he was Chief Commander when Sir John Lanier was in Scotland: Because Sir John was not a Major-General till the Landing of the Prince of Orange, whereas Mackay had his Commission when Monmouth appear'd in the West some years before.

He was certainly an Honest Gentleman, ^{His Character.} a Zealous Presbyterian, and brave enough, as appear'd at Gilli-cranky, where tho' his Conduct was blamed, his Courage was not, tho' the Flight of his Men forc'd him to give way. He was a good Soldier, with sufficient Qualifications to be a Colonel; but for a General Office, it seem'd to be a Preferment above his Capacity. His Ill Conduct show'd it self divers ways;
First,

First, His neglect of Ammunition when he march'd into the Blair of Athol, the Soldiers having a very slender Provision of Powder and Ball. Then his going with so weak a Force against a formidable Enemy, who had many Advantages in that Place, and not only the Mountains but the People to favour 'em. His often marching the Horse till it was dark Night, when they were to incamp and forage, appear'd very strange, when no reason could be offer'd for it; but, on the contrary, 'twas extremely dangerous, as well as inconvenient, to be moving at such an hour. His travelling up and down the Country with great Bodies of Horse without doing any thing, and for ought we could discover, without Design to do: This look'd as if he affected a Cavalcade, or Progress, more than a War, and had a mind to ruine the Troops instead of subduing the Country. Which, and the like Instances, tho' frequently remonstrated by the English Officers, yet made no Impression; but he went on in his way, that it might not be said he wanted those Helps in the Art of War, or that They knew 'em better than He.

These Characters show the difference between the Two Commanders, and what Advantages advantages the One had over the Other. And I remember 'em with design to infer the over-ruling Providence of God in Humane Affairs; and in particular that there must be more than the bare Conduct and Policy of Man, to bring things in that Kingdom to the desired Issue.

While we staid at Perth, our Curiosity led us to visit Scone, being a Walk of Scone. Pleasure, or short Mile thither. It was formerly a Monastery, tho' now made a Lay-Mansion, belonging to my Lord Stormond, and has a few Houses about it to the Bulk of a Country Village, but hardly fit to be called a Town. The Honour of the Place is a little Chappel where the Kings of Scotland are usually Crowned, and where King Charles II. took the Covenant, when he was in that Kingdom. From hence the Stone was brought to Westminster-Abbey by King Edward I. whereon the Scotch Princes anciently received their Crowns, and concerning which there is this kind of Prophecy.

Si verum est fatum Scoti quocunq; locatum, Invenient lapidem, regnare tenentur ibidem.

The

The Scots shall brook the Realm as natif ground,
If Wierds fail not, whaire 'ere this Stane is found.

Which is thought to be accomplish'd in the late Race of Kings, from K. James VI. downward.

Forfar.

From Perth we march'd Northerly to Forfar, a Place of no great noise, saving that it is a Country-Town, a Royal Borough, and anciently the Seat of several Parlia- ments. Govern'd by a Provost and Bayliffs, and had once the King's Palace, though now we scarce see the Ruins of it.

Dundee.

While we Quarter'd here, we took the Air so far as Dundee, a very pretty Town, seated at the bottom of an Hill almost at the Mouth of the River Tay, which runs up to Perth; 'Tis furnish'd with two or three small Piers for the conveniency of Shipping, and the Buildings are such as speak the Substance and Riches of the Place. It is a Royal Borough, and considerable for its Trade, wherein it has supplanted St. Andrews on the other side the River, and about seven Miles from it.
Here we were handsomly Treated at the Charges of the Corporation, who Complemented

plemented us with Burgess-ships, and gave us Instruments in these words.

*Apud Dundee 17 die mensis Augusti,
A. D. 1689. Jacobo Fletcher proposito, Thoma Mundie Gildæ Decano, & Jacobo Bowar Thesaurario.*

QUO die — N — debite & legitime creatus & admissus est Liber Burgensis & frater Gildæ dicti Burgi, cum omnibus & singulis privilegiis, libertatibus & immunitatibus ad dictum Burgum spectantibus. Qui præstitit jamentum Burgale more Solito.

Extractum per me,

Ja. Weddeburne.

Returning back to Perth, we received Dunblain. Orders to March to Glasgow; and in our way thither we pass'd through Dunblain, a Bishop's Sea, but a very ordinary Town, without any thing worthy remembrance but Bishop Leighton's new Library; a large Church much abused by the wild Cameronians; and the late Bishop's Kindness, whose Name is Douglas, a very Reverend verend and Hospitable Gentleman, and entertained me Courteously.

Sterling.

About four Miles farther was Sterling, a fine Town, and in two instances a Copy of Edinburgh, as standing on a considerable Rising, and having a strong Castle to defend it, built on a steep Rock, and by a great River: Over which is a long Stone-Bridge, and a strong Gate. 'Tis a Town of good Trade, having the benefit of the Fryth to bring up Vessels to it. 'Tis a Royal Borough, was formerly the King's Palace, and Seat of Parliaments; is well built and continues still in much Reputation and Honour. But I only pass'd through it, and can say no more.

Linlithgow.

Twelve Miles hence and the Mid-way between Sterling and Edinburg, is the Town of Linlithgow, a Royal Borough, with a large Building called the Castle, and was formerly the Residence of several Princes. It is still own'd for the King's House, but used by my Lord Levisston, and consists of a stately Quadrangle, in the midst of which is a fine Fountain. About the Quadrangle are divers Niches or places for Images to stand in, but not one Figure left besides the Popes, which affords matter of Reflection. There are many such conveniencies about the Church-Wall, but there there is no Effigies besides that of St. Michael the Arch-Angel, the Protector or Turelar Angel of the Church and Town, whose common Seal is gartered with this Inscription, Sancte Michael ora pro nobis.

The Church is large, and has an handsome Gallery and a Seat for the King. One of its Ministers formerly served at Iver in Buckinghamshire, by Name Mr. Seaton, who Studies Divinity and Physick together.

'Tis from Linlithgow to Glasgow 24 Miles, and we go through Falkirk and Kelsyth, two Boroughs of Royalties, but there is nothing remarkable in 'em, nor in all the way to Glasgow, excepting the sight of Grey Crows, which are very numerous in this Country.

Glasgow is a place of great Extent and good Situation; and has the Reputation of the finest Town in Scotland, not excepting Edinburgh, tho' the Royal City. The Two main Streets are made Cross-wise, well paved and bounded with stately Buildings, especially about the Center, where they are mostly New, with Piazzas under 'em. It is a Metropolitane Sea, and at the upper upper end of the great Street stands the Archbishop's Palace, formerly without doubt a very Magnificent Structure, but now in Ruines, and has no more left in Repair than what was the ancient Prison, and is at this time a mean Dwelling. A little higher is the Church, a great Fabrick, with a lofty Steeple, built by St. Mungo, who lies buried between four Pillars, in that part of the Church they call the Baronie; for it is divided into three parts, the Upper, the Lower, and the Baronie, which is assigned the Country People thereabouts for their use, and the Town has nothing to do with it. This Cathedral with one large Church more in the Heart of the City where the Magistrates attend, are all the places of Publick Worship at Glasgow, the Nest of Fanaticism, and the most Factionous Town in all that Kingdom. The Yard belonging to the Cathedral is the Common Burial-Place, and the Fence or Wall consists of continued Monuments, or Stones erected for the Memory of the Dead; a pretty device and useful. From hence to the River the City reaches, a Mile in length, the half of which is upon a Declension. This River is a great Current, called the Clyde, (the brief of Caledonius) and conduces much to the Riches of the Inhabitants, and makes it the most considerable Town of that Nation. Here are several Hospitals, or Houses of Charity. And many Spires more for Ornament than Use. And a Toll-booth or Common-Hall very Magnificent (as most of 'em are in the Towns of Scotland) for Publick Entertainments, or City Business.

to

Here is an University, but it consists only of one College, as at Edinburgh. Erected by Archbishop Turnbull, with the consent of King James II. and by the Bull of Pope Nicholas V. about 1451. who Endow'd it with the Privileges of the University of Bononia. Their College.

What those Privileges were is uncertain, the Bull and other Evidences being convey'd away by Archbishop Beaton, at the time of the Reformation. So that being altogether left in the dark, and no little Distraction, there being no Face of an University for several Years, it pleas'd King James VI. by a Charter of Erection to found inde Nova and give it the Privileges of an University, endowing it with such a Revenue as he thought convenient, (without respect had to any former Foundation) but short of what it had before, as appears by some Records they afterwards

H

The College.

towards recovered, and by the Directions of which they Govern themselves as far as is agreeable with the present State and good of the Society.

The College is composed of a neat Quadrangle, with some other Buildings well digested and uniform enough. The Front or Entrance is stately and well Carved, and is in the Main Street. Behind is a Garden very large, and which they are surrounding with an high Wall, it has a small Chappel, several Schools and a Common Hall. The Library is well digested, and the Books so order'd, (not as at Edinburgh, where they are Marshall'd and distinguish'd according to the Benefactors, but) as the Sciences direct 'em. And the Supercriptions serve only to shew what Books they are, and not who gave 'em. The College has (besides Students and Servants) a Chancellor, Rector, Dean of the Family, Principal, and Four Regents, according to King James VI's Foundation, and the Charter of King Charles I. 1630. confirm'd by Parliament, 1633. saving that there is added to the preceding number one Professor of Divinity.

1. The Archbishop of Glasgow is, by the Foundation, always their Chancellor, who who confers all Degrees above Bachelor of Arts (which the Dean of the Faculty may give) and in Person, or by his Vice-Chancellor, presides in the Examination of all such as are in that University to receive Degrees.

2. The Rector is annually chosen, and is their Chief Magistrate under the King.

3. Their Dean is chosen by the Masters every Year, and is the Examiner and observes what is taught in the College.

4. The Principal is Professor of Theology and Languages; has the Name and Jurisdiction of the Head of the House, and with the Rector and Dean, can place and misplace the Regents, yet if he be out of the College three Nights together, without the Regents' consent, they have the like Power to eject him and declare a Vacancy.

5. Those Regents order the Classes, and are the Tutors to the Youth of the College and Lecturers in the Sciences. By the Charter they are fixed to particular Professions, but since the Year 1643, they are called in general and promiscuously Professors of Philosophy and Tongues. Their business is to instruct the Students, and prepare 'em for Degrees.

There are no Students belonging to the College, such as we call Foundation-Men or Scholars; and as for the rest who meet in Term-time they are indifferently Habited with Red Gowns and long Sleeves, tho' of several Years and Classes. These Youths for the first five Days in the Week, are Taught, Examined, and Dispute in their proper Schools. But on Saturday they meet all in the Common-Hall and from 10 to 12 Matut. exercise themselves on those Theses or Subjects the Regents propose to debate upon.

The Kings of Scotland, and Archbishops of Glasgow are the Chief Benefactors. Yet the College has many Others, and among these we must not pass by Mr. Zacharias Bode, who left it a considerable Legacy, and therefore his Image is set over the inner part of the Gate-House, with an account of his kindness, in Golden Letters. This Gentleman affected Poetry and his main Theme was Scripture, which he turned into Verse, and by his Will required his Executors to see the Work Printed. His Strain you may perceive by this Specimen, concerning Isaac and Rebecca in Genesis.
Rebecca

*Rebecca was very fair and bonnie,
And pleased Isaac's wanton Eye.
He carried her to his Father's Tent,
And gave her Geer, such as God lent.
And when the Bed began to bob,
He begat Esau and Jacob.*

You may judge of the Poesie by this piece of it. The Executors did not think it proper to perform this part of his Will, and in Honour and Affection to him, would not suffer it to be Printed. Neither has the learned World much reason to be troubled at the loss of it. However (as becomes 'em) the College speak of him with great respect, and is not forward in every bodies hearing, to represent his Weakness and Vanity.

Glasgow is as Faction as it is Rich. Yet the most considerable Persons for Quality, are well disposed to the Church. But the disaffected make up that defect with Number, and sometimes call the Hill-Men or Field Conventiclers to assist 'em.

Over the River Clyde is a very fine Bridge, with a great number of Arches; and on the other side is a little Town, which is the Suburbs of Glasgow, and is as Southwark to London. The sight of the River and Arms of Glascom (being a Fish with a Ring in his Mouth) put me in mind of this Story, as the Inhabitants report it.

A Young Lady being courted by a Gentleman living not far from Glascom, was presented with a Ring, which after Marriage, going over the River, she accidentally let fall into the Water. A while after, the Husband missing the Ring grew jealous, and suspected she had given it to some other Man whom she fancied better. This created great Discontent, nor could the Arch-Bishop himself reconcile 'em, tho' he earnestly and often endeavour'd it: Till one day walking in a Green by the River-side, and seeing the Fishermen drawing their Nets, it so happen'd that the Bishop made a Purchase of the Draught, and in the mouth of one of the Fishes found the Ring, which had occasioned so much Animosity and Quarrels between the Man and his Wife. The Bishop immediately carries the Ring to the Husband, convinces him of his Wife's Innocency, and so without much difficulty reconciles 'em again. And from the Strangeness of the Event, from this time forward, was made the Arms of the Town.

We

We went from Glasgow to Hyre a Country-Town, and Royal Borough, situate near the Clyde, the same River that runs up to Glasgow, from whence it is distant 24 Miles. Here are seen the Ruines of a Citadel, built by Oliver Cromwell about the Year 1652. and was demolish'd after the Restoration. In this Town K. Wil- liam and Q. Mary were first proclaimed, and own'd for their Sovereign. The Town is pretty enough, and had formerly a very great Trade, but is much impair'd of late Years by the Losses they have sustained: So that now they give way to the Success of Glasgow, and chuse rather to freight other Mens Ships, than be at the hazard to build any of their own. There is a small River runs by the Town-side into the Clyde, with a good Bridge upheld by Four Arches. Here I had the sight of a Manuscript in much repute, and of which I had heard before, tho' I cou'd not come at it, when I had more leisure to peruse it. The Bishop of Dunkell was the Author. It is an Historical Account or Narrative of all the Transactions during the late Civil War, wherein being himself a concern'd Party,
he was better able to do such a Work.

'Tis from hence to Lough-rian 34 Miles, and ill Way, but at length we Shipp'd our selves and Horses; and the next Morning the Admiral firing a Gun, the Fleet immediately prepared for Sailing: And in seven hours time, by the help of a strong N. E. Wind we got to the Lough of Carick-fergus; and the next Morning, being Octob. 17. 1689. we landed safely at Belfast in the Kingdom of Ireland.

THE END.

THE

THE KING'S SUPREMACY IN SCOTLAND.
APPENDIX.

HAVING mentioned in the foregoing Pages The King's Supremacy, the Reader perhaps might think it proper that something had been said on that Subject. As also, Whether there be any difference between the English Liturgy and that design'd for Scotland, and what the difference is. And withall, What the Nature of the Revenue and Expences are, with respect to the Civil and Military Lists. These Things therefore I subjoin an Account of, with as much Brevity as I could possibly use.

The

The KING or QUEENS Supremacy in Scotland.

Writ by Sir George Mackenzy, and presented by some Scotch Clergy to — to be given King William, 1691.

BY the 120th. Act of Parliament, 8 K. J. 6. the King's Royal Prerogative of Supremacy over all Estates, as well Ecclesiastical as Civil, is acknowledged and ratified. And it is declared that none shall decline the King's Power in the Premises, under the Pain of Treason.

Thereafter by the first Act of Parliament, 2 K. Ch. 2. there is an Explication of this Act and Prerogative, whereby it is declared, that whatever Constitution the King shall make concerning the ordering and disposing of the External Government of the Church shall be obey'd as Law.

This last Act was thought to give the King too much Power; For he might have hereby abolished Episcopacy or Presbytery, or any other Government, by his own immediate Authority; and he did remove Bishops without any Process or Trial, both from from their Temporal Estates and Spiritual Dignities; and so there was some Pretext for rescinding this last Act, and it is rescinded by the 1st. of the 2d. Session of Parliaments of W. and M. But the first Act is not rescinded, and there was an expresse Order to the King's Commissioner not to consent to any Act in prejudice thereof.

The King then, by Virtue of the first Act, continueth to have a Supremacy over all the Estates Ecclesiastical and Civil, and over all Persons and Causes relating thereto: And it is Treason to decline his Majesty's Authority therein. And unless there had been such an Act, Ministers might preach and do what they pleased, since they were to be the Judges of every thing done by themselves, which is the height of Papish Hierarchy, and makes Churchmen no Subjects. And therefore one Mr. David Black, a Presbyterian Minister, having railed in a Publick Sermon against K. James and Q. Elizabeth, as Enemies to God, he not only declined the King's Power of judging of him until he was first condemned by his Brethren, but united the greater part of the Ministers in Scotland most tumultuously in his defence: Whereupon the Laicks assembled in Parliament, in a just resentment of this Extravagancy, travagancy, did pass the aforementioned Act of Supremacy; and, by virtue of that very Act Mr. James Guthrie, a Presbyterian Minister was A. D. 1661. hang'd for declining the King's Authority.

However it cannot be denied to the King, but that he may by virtue of this Act stop all Proceedings before the Ecclesiastical Judicatories, until he be fully informed. And that he may appoint Commissioners to inquire into the Justice and Legality of their Actings, by which none can be prejudged, but such as are resolved to oppress. This would make Men wary who are in the Government, and Others who live under it hope for Justice, and behave themselves as good Subjects in that Expectation, whereas now the One side are become Tyrants, and the other desperate. — And if the Prerogative would order the Privy Council to see a stop put to all process of Suspensions and Deprivations, and appoint some indifferent Commissioners to review former Processes and give the King account of what is past, which is ordinarily done by the King in his other Courts Civil and Criminal. This would be the best Expedient to quiet the Kingdom, and settle Justice —

THE

The Scotch Liturgy Printed at Edinburgh, 1637.

The TITLE

The Book of Common-Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments for the Use of the Church of Scotland.

A Proclamation for the Authorizing of the Book of Common-Prayer to be used throughout the Realm of Scotland.

C H A R E S, by the Grace of God King of Great Britain, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith— To our Lovitz, Messengers, our Sheriffs on that part conjunctly and severally specially Constitute Greeting.

FOrasmuch as We ever since Our Entry to the Imperial Throne of this our Ancient Kingdom of Scotland, especially since Our late being here in the same, have divers times Recommended to the Archbishops and Bishops here the Publishing of a Publick Form of Service in the the Worship of God, which We would have uniformly observed therein: And the same being now condescended upon, altho' We doubt not but all Our Subjects, both Clergy and others will receive the said Publick Form of Service, with such Reverence as appertaineth: Yet thinking it necessary to make Our Pleasure known, touching the Authorizing of the Book thereof —

Our Will is, and We charge you straitly, and command that incontinent these Our Letters seen, you pass, and in Our Name and Authority command and charge all Our Subjects both Ecclesiastical and Civil, by open Proclamation, at the Market-Crosses of the Head Boroughs of this our Kingdom, and other places needful: To Conform themselves to the said Publick Form of Worship, which is the only Form, which We (having taken the Counsel of Our Clergy) think fit to be used in God's Publick Worship in this our Kingdom: Commanding also all Archbishops and Bishops and other Presbyters and Church-Men, to take special Care that the same be duly obey'd and observed, and the Contraveners condignly Censured and Punished: And to have special Care that every

every Parish betwixt and Pasch next procure unto themselves two at least of the said Books of Common-Prayer for the use of the said Parish. The which to do, We commit to you conjunctly and severally our full Power by these our Letters, delivering the same by you duly Executed and Endorsed again to the Bearer—

Given under Our Signet at Edinburgh the 20th. Day of December, and of Our Reign the Twelfth Year, 1636.

Per actum Secreti Concilii

The

over by Parliament between and which next procame into themselves two at last of the kind Books of Common Prayer for the use of the said Parish. On the which do We commit to your consideration and love fully our full power to make our errors delivering the same by you duly executed and finished again to the better

PREFACE.

THE Church of Christ hath in all Ages had a Prescript Form of Common-Prayer or Divine Service, as appears by the Ancient Liturgies of the Greek and Latin Churches. This was done, as for other great Causes, so likewise for retaining an Uniformity in God's Worship, a thing most befitting them that are of One and that the same Profession. For by the Form that is kept in the Outward Worship of God, Men commonly judge of Religion. For in that there be a Diversity, strait they are apt to conceive the Religion to be divers. Wherefore it were to be wisht, that the whole Church of Christ were One, as well in Form of Publick Worship, as in Doctrine: And that as it has but One Lord and One Faith, so it had but one Heart

and

and One Mouth. This would prevent many Schisms and Divisions, and serve much to the preserving of Unity. But since that cannot be hoped for in the whole Catholick Christian Church; yet at least in the Churches that are under the Protection of one Sovereign Prince, the same ought to be endeavoured.

It was not the least part of our late Sovereign King James of Blessed Memory, His Care, to work this Uniformity in all His Dominions: But while he was about to do it, it pleased God to translate him to a better Kingdom. His Majesty that now Reigneth (and long may He Reign over us in all Happiness) not suffering His Father's good purpose to fall to the Ground, but treading the same Path with the like Zeal and Pious Affection, gave Order soon after His coming to the Crown, for the framing of a Book of Common-Prayer, like unto that which is received in the Churches of England and Ireland for the use of this Church. After many Lets and Hindrances, the same cometh now to be published to the Good, we trust, of all God's People, and the increase of true Piety and sincere Devotion among them.

But as there is nothing, how good and warrantable soever in its self, against which some will not except: So it may be that Exceptions will be taken against this good and most Pious Work, and perhaps none more pressed, than that we have followed the Service-Book of England. But we should desire them that take this Exception, to consider, that being as we are by God's Mercy of one True Profession, and otherwise united by many Bonds, it had not been fitting to vary much from theirs, ours especially coming out after theirs, seeing the Disturbers of the Church both here and there, should by our Differences, if they had been great, taken occasion to work more trouble. Therefore did we think fit to adhere to their Form, even in Festivals and some other Rites, not as yet received, nor observed in our Church, rather than by omitting them, to give the Adversary to think, that we disliked any part of their Service.
I most

Our first Reformers were of the same mind with us, as appeareth by the Ordinance they made, That in all the Parishes of this Realm, the Common-Prayer should be read weekly on Sundays and other Festival-Days, with the Lessons of the Old and New Testament, Conform to the Order of the Book of Common-Prayer (meaning that of England, for 'tis known that divers Tears after we had no other Order for Common-Prayer) this is Recorded to have been the first Head concluded in a frequent Council of the Lords
and

and Barons professing Christ Jesus. — We keep the Words of the History. Religion was not then placed in Rites and Gestures, nor Men taken with the Fancy of Extemporary Prayers. Surely the Publick Worship of God in his Church being the most Solemn Action of us his poor Creatures here below, ought to be performed by a Liturgy advisedly set and framed, and not according to the Judain and various Fancies of Men. This shall suffice for the present to have said. The God of Mercy confirm our Hearts in his Truth, and preserve us alike from Prophaneness and Superstition. Amen.

This

This Liturgy agrees with the Old English Liturgy of King Edward VI. and wherein it differs from that we use at present, we see as follows.

After the foregoing Proclamation and Preface, follows an Order for Ministers to read the Common Prayer, either publickly or privately every Morning and Evening, unless hindered by some urgent cause, of which the Archbishop or Bishop to be Judge.

Then a Discourse about Ceremonies, the same with ours. With what follows about the Psalter and Scriptures; with the Rule for the Lessons on Sundays and Holy-Days. Then the Kalendar and Catalogue of Holy-Days. When Advent-Sunday begins, Septuagesima, &c.

Then the Proper Psalms, wherein they agree with us, saving that they have none for Good Friday or Ash-Wednesday; And for Whit-Sunday, whereas we use the 48. and 68. they use 45. 47.

The Sentences	{	Ezek. 18. 31, 32.	Prov. 28. 13.
		Psal. 51. 9, 17.	Jerm. 10. 24.
		Joel 2. 13.	Psal. 143. 2.
		Dan. 9. 9, 10.	1 John 1. 8.

In

In the Absolution.

Almighty God — And hath given Power and Commandment to the Presbyters of his Church, the Ministers of the Gospel— And then instead of [He pardoneth] it is there worded, The same Almighty God pardoneth — Wherefore we beseech him — That we may receive from him Absolution from all our Sins, that those things may please him, &c. ad finem.

Instead of the Benedicite omnia opera, they had Dominus regit, Psal. 23. the rest from the Absolution to That, and what follows agrees with us, only where we say [Endue thy Ministers with Righteousness] they said, Endue thy Presbyters and Ministers —

After the Third Collect for Grace, we are directed to the Litany.

In the Litany. We beseech — to govern thy Holy Catholick Church Universally, to illuminate all Bishops, Presbyters and Ministers of the Church —

After the Litany, and the Collect [We humbly beseech thee, follow the Set Prayers for the King, Queen, Clergy, in which between Bishops and Curates is inserted Presbyters] then St. Chrysostom's Prayer and the Blessing, I 3 Then

Then the Occasional Prayers, the same with us, only the first for Ember-Week is omitted.

In the Rubrick for the Gospel there is this Direction, viz.

The Presbyter or Minister before he beginneth to read the Gospel, shall say, The Gospel of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ — And then the People say, Glorry be to God — And the Gospel ended, the People shall say, Thanks be to thee, O Lord.

Difference in these following Collects —

Third Sunday in Advent.

Lord, we beseech thee, give ear to our Prayers, and by thy Gracious Visitation lighten the Darkness of our Hearts by our Lord Jesu Christ. Amen.

St. Stephens-Day.

Grant us, O Lord, to learn to love our Enemies, by the Example of thy Martyr St. Stephen, who pray'd for his Persecutors to thee, who livest, &c.

Innocents.

Innocents-Day.

Almighty God, whose Praise this Day, the young Innocents thy Witnesses have confess'd and shew'd forth, not in speaking, but in dying, mortifie and kill all Vices in us, that in our Conversation, our Life may express thy Faith, which with our Tongues we do confess through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Fourth Sunday after Epiphany.

God who knowest — Grant to us the health of Body and Soul, that all those things which we suffer for Sin, by thy help we may well pass and overcome through Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Sixth Sunday after Epiphany, the Collect for the 5th. with its Epistle and Gospel, is to be repeated.

Easter-Eve.

O most gracious God, look upon us in Mercy, and grant that as we are Baptized into the Death of thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ; So by our true and hearty Repentance, all our Sins may be bury'd with him, and we not fear the Grave; That as Christ was rais'd from the Dead by the Glory of Thee, O Father, so we also may walk in newness of Life, but our Sins never be able to rise in Judgment against us; and that for the Merit of Jesus Christ that dy'd, was bury'd, and rose again for us. Amen.

Easter-Day.

The first Member of the Anthem omitted; as also the Doxology.

Fourth Sunday after Easter.

Almighty God, who dost make the Minds of all faithful Men to be of one Will, grant, &c.

Whit-Sunday.

God, who as on this Day, &c. Monday and Tuesday, as at this time —

Second Sunday after Trinity.

Lord, make us to have a perpetual fear and love of thy Holy Name. For thou thou never failest to help and govern them whom thou dost bring up in thy stedfast Love. Grant this——

Third Sunday after Trinity.

Lord, we beseech thee mercifully hear us; and as thou hast given us an hearty desire to pray, so grant that by thy mighty Aid we may be defended, thro' Jesus Christ our Lord ——

Sixth Sunday after Trinity. This Collect is the same with ours, only it is said, That we loving thee in (instead of above) all things——

The Eighth Sunday after Trinity.

God whose Providence is never deceived, we humbly beseech thee, that thou wilt put away from us all hurtful things, and give, &c.

Eleventh Sunday after Trinity.

God, who, &c —— Give unto us abundantly thy Grace, that we running to thy Promises, may be made partakers of thy heavenly Treasure, &c ——

Thirteenth.

Thirteenth Sunday after Trinity.

Almighty, &c. — Grant, we beseech thee, that we may so run to thy heavenly Promises, that we fail not finally to attain the same —

The Nineteenth Sunday after Trinity.

Instead of [Thy Holy Spirit] it is there [The working of thy Mercy.]

Twentieth Sunday after Trinity.

Instead of [Cheerfully] it is there [with free Hearts.]

St. Paul's-Day.

God, who hast taught all the World through the Preaching of thy blessed Apostle St. Paul: Grant, we beseech thee, that we who have his wonderful Conversion in remembrance, may follow and fullfil thy Holy Doctrine that he taught, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

St. Philip's and St. James' Day.

Almighty God — as thou hast taught St. Philip, and other the Apostles, through Jesus Christ our Lord — St.

St. Bartholomew's-Day.

O Almighty God — Grant, we beseech thee, unto thy Church, both to love that he believed, and to preach that he taught, through Christ our Lord —

Communion Service.

The Rubrick the same with Ours, only that Presbyter is prefix'd, and set before Minister and Curate. The Proviso about Certifying to the Ordinary is also omitted.

Instead of [Body of the Church or Chancel for the Table] it is worded there [The uppermost part of the Chancel or Church —]

In the Prayer for the Catholick Church —

These Words [especially to this Congregation here present] are omitted. And after this Clause [all the days of their life] follows this Parenthesis (And we commend especially unto thy merciful Goodness, the Congregation which is here assembled in thy Name, to celebrate the Commemoration of the most precious Death Death and Sacrifice of thy Son and our Saviour Jesus Christ,) with Directions in the Margent to leave out these Words when there is no Communion.

Then follows as with us, until [any other Adversity] And we also bless thy Holy Name for all those thy Servants, who having finish'd their Course in Faith, do now rest from their Labours. And we yield unto thee, Most High Praise and hearty Thanks for the wonderful Grace and Vertue declared in all thy Saints, who have been the choice Vessels of thy Grace, and the Lights of the World in their several Generations: Most humbly beseeching thee, that we may have Grace to follow the Example of their stedfastness in thy Faith and Obedience to thy Holy Commandments, that at the day of the general Resurrection, we, and all they that are of the Mystical Body of thy Son, may be set on his right hand, and hear that his most joyful Voice, Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the Foundation of the World. Grant this, O Father, for Jesus Christ's sake our only Mediator and Advocate —

The first Exhortation to the Holy Communion is omitted.

The

The Second with us is their first, and begins thus, as in King Edward VI's Liturgy, 1552. We be come together at this time (dearly beloved Brethren) to feed at the Lord's Supper, unto which, &c. as in ours unto these words, How sore Punishment, hangs over your Heads for the same [Then follows all this.] And whereas you offend God so grievously in refusing this Holy Banquet, I admonish, exhort and beseech you, that unto this unkindness, you will not add any more. Which thing you shall do, if you stand by as Gazers and Lookers on them that do Communicate, and be not Partakers of the same your selves. For what thing can this be accounted else, than a farther contempt and unkindness to God? Truly it is a great unthankfulness to say, nay, when you be called: But the fault is much greater when Men stand by and yet will not receive this Holy Sacrament, which is offered unto them. I pray you, what can this be else, but even to have the Mysteries of Christ in derision? It is said unto all, Take ye and eat. Take and drink ye all of this. Do this in remembrance of me. With what Face then, and with what Countenance shall ye hear these words? What will this be else but a neglecting glecting and despising and mocking of the Testament of Christ? Wherefore, rather than you should do so, depart ye hence, and give place to them that be Godly disposed. But when ye depart, I beseech ye ponder with your selves, from whom ye depart; ye depart from the Lord's Table; ye depart from your Brethren, and from the Banquet of the most heavenly Food, these things, if ye earnestly consider, ye shall by God's Grace return to a better mind: For the obtaining whereof, we shall make our humble Petitions, while we shall receive the Holy Communion.

Then an Exhortation at the Discretion of the Presbyter is said, the same with King Edward VI.

The Exhortation at the time of Celebration is the same with ours — Also the following Invitation — Confession — and Absolution, &c. to the Consecration — Prayer — which agrees with us, saving that when you come hither, [Hear us O merciful Father, we most humbly beseech thee] There follows, and of thy Almighty Goodness vouchsafe so to bless and sanctifie with thy Word and Holy Spirit, those thy Gifts and Creatures of Bread and Wine, that that they may be unto us the Body and Blood of thy most dearly beloved Son: So that we receiving them according to thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ's Holy Institution, in remembrance of his Death and Passion, may be Partakers of the same his most precious Body and Blood — Who, &c. Then follows immediately this Prayer of Oblation.

Wherefore, O Lord and Heavenly Father, according to the Institution of thy dearly beloved Son our Saviour Jesus Christ, we thy humble Servants do celebrate and make here before thy Divine Majesty, with these thy Holy Gifts, the Memorial which thy Son hath willed us to make, having in remembrance his blessed Passion, mighty Resurrection, and glorious Ascension, rend'ring unto thee most hearty Thanks for the innumerable Benefits procured unto us by the same — And we intirely desire thy Fatherly Goodness, &c. as in the Prayer following the Pater Noster after the Receiving — Saying that after these Words [That whosoever shall be Partakers of this Holy Communion (follows) may worthily receive the most precious Body and Blood of thy Son Jesus Christ, and be fulfill'd with thy Grace and Heavenly venly Benediction, and made one Body with him, that they may dwell in them, and they in him] And altho' we be unworthy, &c. ad finem —

Then follows the Lord's Prayer —
And the Prayer of humble Access, which with us is before the Consecration —
And then the Act of receiving [all kneeling] in these Words —

The Body of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was given for thee, preserve thy Body and Soul unto everlasting Life —

The Blood, &c. With Directions to the Communicants to say, Amen.

Then follows this Thanksgiving immediately —

Almighty and Everliving God, we most heartily thank thee for that thou dost vouchsafe to feed us, which have duly received those Holy Mysteries with the Spiritual Food of the most Precious Body and Blood of thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ, and dost assure us thereby of thy Favour and Goodness towards us, and that we be very Members incorporate in thy Mystical Body, which is the blessed Company of all faithful People, and be also Heirs through Hope of thy everlasting Kingdom, by the Merits of the most Precious Death and Passion of thy dear

dear Son. We now most humbly beseech thee, O Heavenly Father, so to assist us with thy Grace, that we may continue in that Holy Fellowship, and do all such good Works as thou hast prepared for us to walk in through Jesus Christ our Lord, To whom with Thee, &c.

Then the Gloria in excelsis — and Benediction —

Half of the Offerings [by the Rubrick] is given to the Minister to buy Books — The other half to the Poor — Or for Furniture of the Church according to the Direction of Presbyter and Church-Wardens. The Six Prayers after the Offertory are Ours —

BAPTISM

The Rubrick — is the same with K. Edward the 6th's.

It appeareth by Ancient Writers that the Sacrament of Baptism in the Old Time was not commonly ministred, but at Two Times in the Year, at Easter and Whitsontide: At which Times it was openly administred in the Presence of all the Congregation: Which Custom now being grown out of use (altho' it cannot for many Considerations be restored again)

again) it is thought good to follow the same as near as conveniently may be. Wherefore the People are to be admonished, &c. as with us ——— Saving that whereas in our Rubrick it is set at the Close of the Paragraph ——— Nevertheless (if Necessity so require) Children may be baptized any other day] It is said there nevertheless ——— Children may at all times be baptized at home ——— The rest (as doth the Service) agrees with us ——— Saving that in the first Prayer, thus: And by the Baptism of thy well-beloved Son Jesus Christ didst sanctifie the Flood of Jordan, and all other Waters to the Mystical washing away of Sin [Sanctify this Fountain of Baptism, Thou who art the Sanctifier of all things] with Directions in the Margent, that The Water in the Font shall be changed twice in the Month at least: And before any Child be baptized in the Water so changed, the Presbyter or Minister shall say at the Font the Words before inclosed ——— Then follows, And farther we beseech thee, &c. ad finem.

In the Consecration-Prayer ——— Regarding, we beseech thee, the Supplications of thy Church, and grant that all thy Servants

Servants that shall be baptized in this Water [which we here bless, and dedicate in thy Name to this spiritual Washing] may receive, &c.

Dipping is required — yet in case of Weakness Sprinkling is allowed —

The rest agrees — As doth Private Baptism.

Baptism of Persons of riper Years is wanting —

Catechism the same

Confirmation. The Matter of the Preface the same, tho' the Form somewhat differs —

Do you here in the Presence of God, &c. to the end, omitted in the Scotch Form — which begins with what follows —

Our Help, &c. — Then the Prayer — and laying on of hands — The Verse following — And Pater Noster omitted — As also the Collect immediately before the Blessing —

The Closing Rubrick requires Ministers to Catechize half an hour before Evening Service on Sundays and Holy-days. And admonishes Parents and Masters to send their Children and Servants.

Matrimony-Office the same — But the Closing Rubrick requires the Young Couple Couple to take the Sacrament the same Day, as in the Liturgy of K. Edward the 6th. 1552.

Visitation of the Sick — the same all along unto God's gracious Mercy and Protection, &c. which is omitted, with all that follows, as in K. Edw. 6th's Liturgy.

Communion of the Sick the same —

Burial-Office the same — Only there is no Psalm, no more than in K. Edward the 6th's. And the Lesson is after the Interment — which being ended it proceeds, Lod have Mercy, &c. — The Scripture of the Revelation is also omitted —

Churching of Women the same — saying that it uses Psalm. 121. as in K. Edw. 6th's and forms the concluding Prayer thus: O Almighty God who hast delivered this Woman thy Servant from the great Pain and Peril of Child-Birth, Grant, &c. —

Commination the same — only it wants the Blessing.

The

The Scotch Revenue.

His Majesty's Annuity of Excise in the Shires and Boroughs Yearly.

		Scots.
		l.	s.	d.
A	Berdeenshire and Town	29027	8	0
	Aire-shire	19677	12	0
	Argile-shire	53325	12	0
	Bampf-shire	5365	16	0
	Berviek shire	7329	12	0
	Bute-shire	684	0	0
	Caithness-shire	1838	8	8
	Clockmannap-shire	2473	4	0
	Cromartie-shire	288	0	0
	Dunbarton-shire	3048	0	0
	Dumfreice-shire	7872	0	0
	Dundee Town	8618	8	0
	Edinburgh shire	25680	0	0
	Town	35184	0	0
	Elgin and Nairn-shires	7154	8	0
	Fiffe and Kinross-shires	43300	16	0
	Forfar-shire	12290	8	0
	Glasgow Town	12914	8	0
	Haddington-shire	15492	0	0
	Inverness-shire	9532	16	0
	Kirkcudbright Stewardtry	5532	0	0
	Kincardin-shire	4363	4	0
	Lanerk-shire	11620	16	0

		Scots.
		l.	s. d.
Linlithgow-shire	9590	8	0
Orkney and Zethland	2925	12	0
Pepis-shire	1650	0	0
Perth-shire	28497	12	0
Renfrew-shire	5486	8	0
Rofs-shire	2448	0	0
Roxborough-shire	9273	12	0
Selkirk-shire	1770	0	0
Sterling-shire	11524	16	0
Sutherland-shire	871	4	0
Wigton-shire	3259	4	0
Summa Totalis	351909	12	0
Sterling-Money	29325	16	0

A Rental of His Majesty's Property, as accounted for 1674.

		Scots.
		l.	s. d.
A Berdeen-shire	591	7	2
Aire shire	342	12	0
Annandale Stewardtry	111	19	0
Argyle-shire	6855	14	4
Bampf-shire	3	4
Berwick-shire	2633	7	0
Clockmannan-shire	6	16	8
Dumfreice-shire	71	8	0
Edinburgh-shire	498	17	0
Elgin and Forrofs-shire	1607	13	0
Fife-shire	8754	2	3
		Forfar.

A Short Account of Scotland, &c. 147

s. d.		Scots.
		l.	s. d.
8 0	Forfar-shire	336	18 8
2 0	Haddington-shire	5857	14 5
0 0	Inner-ness and Ross-shires	14068	3 0
2 0	Kincardin-shire	59	10 0
8 0	Kirkcudbright Stewardtry	121	0 0
0 0	Lanerk-shire	466	0 0
2 0	Linlithgow-shire	117	6 9
0 0	Nairn-shire	189	6 8
6 0	Peblis-shire	109	16 5
4 0	Perth-shire	3017	11 5
4 0	Renfrew-shire	133	6 8
	Roxborough-shire	2510	19 4
2 0	Selkirk-shire	2702	7 2
6 0	Sterling-shire	95	4 10
	Sutherland-shire	4	0 0
	Wighton-shire	1531	2 8
	Summa Totalis	52794	8 4
	Sterling	4399	10 8

Customs and Excise.

The Tack-Duty of His Majesty's Customs and Excise of Foreign Commodities is Yearly Sterling ————— 25600 l.

Orkney-Rent.

The Tack-Duty of His Majesty's Rents in Orkney and Zetland is Yearly ————— 2000 l.

Besides which Income, extraordinary Supplies are sometimes granted by the Convention of States, to support the Crown upon pressing Occasions.

Expences on the Civil List. Signed by the King October the 19th, 1678.

To the Lord Chan-	} 83 6 8	} Sterling.
cellor, of Fee-- Pension----- Purse----- Mace-Bearer-----
Additional Pension--	500 0 0	1655 11 2
To the Lord Secretary -	1000 0 0
To the Commissioners of the	} 1500 0 0
Treasury-----
To the Deputy-Treasurer -----	906 0 0
To the President of the Session-----	500 0 0
To the Clerk } Pension 400 0 0	} 444 16 8
Register-- } Fee ----- 44 16 8
To the Advocate -----	400 0 0
To two Macers at 50 l. each -----	100 0 0
To the Justice Clerk -----	400 0 0
To the Chamberlains, viz. Chamberlain of Monteath 6 l. 6 s. 8 d. Lindores 5 l. 11 s. 2 d.
Ettrick Forrest 8 l. 6 s. 8 d. Fife 50 l. Stra-thern 15 l. Galloway 18 l. 6 s. 8 d. Dunbar 25 l. Ross 83 l. 6 s. 8 d. Their Fees are allowed Yearly in their Intromissions, inde in all-----	213 17 10
To the Usher of the Exchequer-----	11 10 0
To His Majesty's Wreaters-----	50 0 0
To

	l.	s.	d.
To the Dictators of the Exchequer, being two	100	0	0
To the Clerk to the Sheriff-Roll	27	15	6
To the Clerk to the Borough-Roll	28	0	0
To the Treasurers Clerk	130	4	4
To the Servants for inrolling	25	0	0
To the Presenter of Signatures	27	15	6
To the Solicitor and Agent, and Office of Presenting in Exchequer Yearly, the List of all Registrars Hornings	100	10	0
To the Director of Chancery	25	0	0
To his Servants	3	17	0
To four Trumpets, each 5 l.	20	0	0
To the Clerk to the King's Process in Session	40	0	0
To the Keeper of the Register of Hornings for Registering all Letters at the Exchequers instance	20	0	0
To the Messenger for Executing Exchequer Precepts	6	13	4
To the Taster of Wines (now taken off)	83	6	8
To the Clerk of the Justice Court	11	2	2
To the Keeper of the Signet	5	0	0
To His Majesty's Usher. Fee	50
Pension	200
	250	0	0
To the Master of the Wardrobe	55	11	2
One Wardrober's Fee	20	0	0
To Lyon King of Arms	100	0	0
To the King's Physician	400	0	0
To the Knight Marshall	200	0	0
To

150 A Short Account of Scotland, &c.

	Sterling.
	l.	s.	d.
To the 2 Chaplains in Ordinary—	40	0	0
To the King's Porter at the Abbey	27	15	6
To the 5 Commissioners of the Justiciary —————	500	0	0
To the Lords of the Session ———	1666	13	4
To the Castle of Edinburgh in lieu of the Iron-Customs gi- ven 'em —————	66	13	4
To the Marquefs of Montrofs for the Customs of Glasgow , and the Earl Marshal, for the Customs of Aberdeen and Bampf , conform to their se- veral Grants between 'em---	1400	0	0
To the Commissioners of the Treasury's Clerk —————	50	0	0
To the Cash-keeper —————	300	0	0
To the Keeper of the Magazine in Edinburgh -Castle —————	50	0	0
To the Master of the Ordinance—	100	0	0
To the Rector and Master of St. Andrews —————	200	0	0
To the Armour-Bearer —————	150	0	0
To the Agent for Church-Affairs	50	0	0
To the Engineer —————	120	0	0
To the Lieutenant of the Artillery	50	0	0
In all —————	15148	16	10

The

A Short Account of Scotland, &c. 151

The Military List, according to the Establishment made Anno Domini 1681.

The Horse-Guard.

	Per diem Sterling.
	l.	s.	d.
Captains Pay and 4 Servants—	1	0	0
Lieutenant and 2 Servants—	0	12	0
Under Lieutenant and 2 Servants—	0	12	0
Cornet and 2 Servants ———	0	11	0
Quarter-Master and 1 Servant—	0	8	0
Four Corporals ———	0	16	0
Surgeon and Mate ———	0	5	0
Clerk or Agent ———	0	4	0
Four Trumpets 2 s. 8 d. each—	0	10	8
One Kettle-Drum ———	0	3	0
One hundred Souldiers 2s. 6d. each	12	10	0
Total ———	17	11	8

The Foot-Guards, being a Regiment of 10 Companies.

Colonel as such ———	0	12	0
Lieutenant Col. as such—	0	7	0
Major as such ———	0	5	0
Quarter-Master ———	0	4	0
Marshal ———	0	2	0
Surgeon and Mate ———	0	5	0
These are Staff-Officers—in all—	1	15	0

The

152 A Short Account of Scotland, &c.

The Officers of the Companies are,

	Per diem. Sterling.
	l.	s.	d.
Captain, whose Pay is ———	0	8	0
Lieutenant ———	0	4	0
Ensign ———	0	3	0
Scrivener or Clerk ———	0	2	0
Two Sergeants, each 1 s. 6 d. ———	0	3	0
Three Corporals, each 1 s. ———	0	3	0
Two Drummers, each 1 s. ———	0	2	0
One hundred Soldiers, each 6 d. ———	2	10	0
Summ of each Company ———	3	15	0

The Garrison of Edinburgh-Castle consists of a

Captain ——— at ———	0	8	0
Lieutenant ———	0	4	0
Ensign ———	0	3	0
Scrivener ———	0	2	0
Three Sergeants, 1 s. 6 d. each ———	0	4	6
Three Gunners ———	0	4	6
Two Drummers ———	0	2	0
Three Corporals ———	0	3	0
One Gun-smith ———	0	2	6
One Chaplain ———	0	2	0
120 Centinels, each 6 d. ———	3	0	0
Coal and Candle to the Corps de Guard
20 l. Sterling Yearly ———	0	1	2 $\frac{2}{3}$

Total ——— 4 16 8 $\frac{2}{3}$

The

A Short Account of Scotland, &c. 153

The Garrison of Sterling has a

		per diem. Sterling.
		l.	s.	d.
Captain	at	0	8	0
Lieutenant		0	4	0
Ensign		0	3	0
Scrivener		0	2	0
Two Sergeants		0	3	0
Two Drummers		0	2	0
Three Corporals		0	3	0
Forty Centinels	each 6 d.	1	0	0
Total		2	5	0

The Garrison of Dumbarton has a

Captain		0	8	0
Lieutenant		0	4	0
Ensign		0	3	0
Two Sergeants		0	3	0
Scrivener		0	2	0
Two Drummers		0	2	0
Three Corporals		0	3	0
Twenty four Centinels, each 6 d.		0	12	0
Total		1	17	0

The Garrison of the Bass has

The Ensign		0	4	0
The Sergeant		0	2	0
The Corporal		0	1	4
		The

The Soldiers are taken out of his Majesty's Regiment of Guard, and paid with them, with allowance of an Addition of 2 d. Sterling, per diem, to each of 'em.

The Pay of the Militia in all Scotland.

TO a Corporal of Horses 3 s. — h 1 s. 10 d.
for each day of ten days in } i 10 0
the Year.

To a Trumpet, 2 s. 8 d. as above — 1 6 8

To a Lieutenant of Foot as above — 2 0 0

To every Sergeant, as above — 0 15 0

To a Drummer, as above — 0 15 0

The inferiour Officers, with the Trumpets and Drummers, to be paid yearly at the Rates, and according to the days above-written, for the whole Militia of Horse and Foot that shall be muster'd yearly.

To the Muster-Master-General, } as his Salary for Mustering the Mi- } 80 0 0 litia yearly —————

More to him as Mustering the } Standing Forces, per diem ————— } 0 7 0

His Majesty appoints the aforementioned Forces to be paid out of the In-land Excise yearly, according to this Establishment.

Three Troops of Horse, each having a Captain whose Pay is 10 s. and } two Horses, each 2 s. ————— } 0 14 0

Lieutenant 6 s. and 2 Horses, each 2 s. — 0 10 0

Cornet 5 s. and 2 Horses, each 2 s. — 0 9 0

Quarter-

A Short Account of Scotland, &c.

155

	Per diem.
	Sterling.
	l.	s.	d.
Quarter-Master 4 s. and 1 Horse 2 s.	0	6	0
Three Corporals, each 3 s.	0	9	0
Two Trumpets, each 2 s. 6 d.	0	5	0
Sixty Horse-Men, each 1 s. 8 d.	5	0	0
Total	7	13	0

Three Troops of Dragoons, each having a
Captain whose Pay is 8 s. and	}	0	10 4
2 Dragoons, each 1 s. 2 d.
Lieutenant 5 s. and 2 Dragoons,	}	0	7 4
each 1 s. 2 d.
Ensign 4 s. and 1 Drag. at 1 s. 2 d.	0	5	2
Two Sergeants, each 2 s. 6 d.	0	5	0
Three Corporals, each 1 s. 8 d.	0	5	0
Two Drummers, each 1 s. 8 d.	0	3	4
Ninety five Soldiers, each 1 s. 2 d.	5	10	10
Total	7	7	0

The Adjutant-General — 0 8 0

By this Establishment there was another Regiment of Foot, besides the Guards and Garrisons, consisting of Ten Companies, and having the same Officers, and those Officers the same Pay as before, and an hundred Soldiers each of 'em 5 d. per diem —

These were the standing Forces; to which an Addition was made as there was occasion for 'em emr: And their Pay Sterling came Yearly to 26786 8 0

Besides this Charge of the Civil and Military Lists, there was a List also of Pensions signed in the same Year, amounting to to the Summ of 11354 18 10 Sterling

So that the Brief of the Ordinary Revenue and Expende, according to the Establishment in the latter end of King Charles II's Reign runs thus The Revenues.

The Annuity of Excise at	29325	16	0
The Rental at	4399	10	0
The Customs at	25600	0	0
The Orkney Rent at	2000	0	0
In all	61325	6	0

The Expende as before.

The Civil List	15148	16	10
The Military List	26786	8	0
The Pensions	11354	18	10
In all	49590	3	8

F I N I S.

E R R A T A.

Page 74. line 23. for delater read debates, p. 89.
l. 18. for and read who.

to o

ary ted am ing

ue ent ans

d.
d e
o
o
o
o

d.
10 10 10 4

8 8 8 8 8

89.